Afro Asian People's Solidarity Organization – AAPSO would like to display its views about Vietnam's achievements in the protection and promotion of human rights since 2014:

The Communist Party of Vietnam and state are making great efforts to improve the legal environment, developing the rule of law, especially for business, to turn Vietnam into an attractive investment destination. Continuous legal reform is being made to liberalise the business environment, and equally important is the restructuring of the economy to improve growth, productivity and competitiveness.

Vietnam has ensured the rights to vote and stand for election, freedom of speech, press, assembly, association, religion and belief, equality and non-discrimination, and the right to freedom of travel and residence. Vietnam has done well in ensuring economic, cultural, and social rights of people like the right to work and improve one's living condition, and the right to health care. The rights of vulnerable groups such as women, children, the elderly, Agent Orange/dioxin victims, and the disabled are protected. Vietnam was elected member of the UN Human Rights Council in 2014.

Vietnam continues to improve the legal system in line with the 2013 Constitution and its international commitments. The government boost socio-economic development to increase resources for poverty reduction, and enhance people's quality of life and access to social security services.
