EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This report has been developed by The Kenya Stakeholders' Coalition on the UPR. The Coalition brings together over 60 NGOs that work on different aspects of human rights in Kenya and is led by a Steering Committee whose members include Amref Health Africa in Kenya; Economic and Social Rights Centre – Hakijamii; Independent Medico Legal Unit (IMLU); The Kenyan Section of the International Commission of Jurists (ICJ Kenya); Kenya Human Rights Commission (KHRC); Lutheran World Federation - World Services (LWF/WS); Pendekezo Letu; Women Empowerment Link (WEL) with technical support from the Kenya National Commission on Human Rights (KNCHR); the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR); and UPR Info Africa. They came together over a period of 1 year and in a series of meetings, collected information which they later analysed to produce this report.

Right at the onset, it is important to note that this report is an analysis of the status of implementation of the UPR recommendations with the indicators being the basis of the assessment and not the recommendations themselves. It is by no means authoritative nor was the analysis scientific, but it is a good guide. The members used the implementation matrix that was developed and published by the Government of Kenya in 2016 and in particular, the indicators that were set out against each of the recommendations that were Accepted by the Government of Kenya.

Kenya has been reviewed twice by the UN Human Rights Council. To date, 100 States have made a total of 419 recommendations during the 2 reviews. Of these, Kenya has Accepted 336 recommendations out of 419 received in total.¹ The first review was in May, 2010 when 51 States made 166 recommendations to Kenya. The State Accepted 144 of these recommendations.² The country's human rights record was reviewed for the 2nd time on 22nd January, 2015 when 91 States made 253 recommendations to Kenya. Of these, the State Accepted 192 recommendations.³

In the Government of Kenya Implementation Matrix, the said 192 recommendations were first grouped together into recommendations touching on similar issues. Thereafter, the sets or groups of similar recommendations were thereafter clustered into four namely 1/ Legal and Institutional Reforms; 2/ Civil and Political Rights; 3/ Economic, Social and Cultural Rights; and 4/ Group Rights. Each of them was assigned a specific action which the government needed to undertake; indicators; government body responsible; potential partners and timeframe to ensure implementation. Table below is a summary of the findings.

Kenya Accepted 192 (that is 76%) out of the 253 recommendations that were made. The analysis is based on the 225 indicators that the Government assigned to the said Accepted recommendations. From the analysis, one can make several general (not scientific) conclusions.

- 1/ Organizations that work on Legal and Institutional Reforms; and Civil and Political Rights are more actively involved, are very strong or they engage very closely with Government of Kenya as they were able to respond to all the recommendations;
- 2/ A bulk of the recommendations that were made to Kenya were on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights which could mean that a lot more emphasis should be placed on these rights as compared to the other 3 clusters;
- 3/ There could be a lot happening under Economic, Social and Cultural Rights but the information is not readily available or the MDAs do not communicate effectively;
- 4/ The State has done relatively better in implementing recommendations relating to Legal and Institutional Reforms compared to the other cluster of recommendations;
- 5/ The lack of information on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights; and Group Rights could be due to the limited engagement in the UPR process by CSOs working on these areas;

The purpose of this CSO Mid Term Report is not to castigate the Government of Kenya or to lay blame but to spur candid discussions and support the government in ensuring that the recommendations are implemented.

In conclusion, the Steering Committee of the Kenya CSO Coalition on the UPR wishes to recognize the painstaking work done by all the members of the Coalition in researching for the information and filling the data collection tools and matrices. Had it not been for these organizations, the much needed information for input in this Mid Term Report would not have been available. Special thanks to the Convenors of the various Thematic Cluster Groups, that is Ms. Beatrice Oluoch from Amref Health Africa in Kenya; Mr Collins Liko from Economic and Social Rights Centre – Hakijamii; Ms. Teresa Mutua from The Kenyan Section of the International Commission of Jurists (ICJ Kenya); Mr. Martin Mavenjina and Ms. Sylvia Mbataru from Kenya Human Rights Commission (KHRC); Ms. Lilian Kantai (LWF-WS) and Mr. Gilbert Onyango (UPR Info Africa) together with all the members of the Steering Committee who gave their time to see the process to the end. Special thanks also to Ms. Enricah Dulo who consolidated the report. More importantly, the Steering Committee would also hereby wish to single out Amref Health Africa in Kenya; Kenya Human Rights Commission (KHRC); the Kenya National Commission on Human Rights (KNCHR); Lutheran World Federation (LWF); Pendekezo Letu; and UPR Info Africa for providing the funds to support meetings at different stages of the process, and also the printing and publishing of this report.

I. INTRODUCTION

In 2006 the United Nations General Assembly near unanimously adopted Resolution 60/251, to establish a Human Rights Council (replacing the Human Rights Commission) with the responsibility for promoting universal respect for the protection of all human rights and fundamental freedoms for all. One of the key mandates of the Council is to undertake a Universal Periodic Review (UPR), on the fulfilment of each States' human rights obligations and commitments. The UPR is therefore a unique Human Rights mechanism where each of the 194 UN Members States are peer-reviewed and examined on their entire human rights record every five years regardless of its size or political influence, under the same rules and supervision. States are required to respond not only to all recommendations made by its peers, but also to provide data on the implementation of recommendations it has previously Accepted, including voluntary commitments.

The UPR remains a co-operative process that requires the full participation of the State under Review. It complements the work of all UN treaty bodies. The UPR is a very important process for advancing the realization of human rights nationally, regionally and globally. It is worth noting that the UPR is a process and not an event. Therefore, the engagement of all the stakeholders must be sustained all through the entire cycle.

Kenya's human rights record was reviewed for the 2nd time on 22nd January, 2015 when Kenya received a total of 253 recommendations. The outcome document of the review, the Working Group report, was formally adopted before the UN Human Rights Council (HRC) on 25th June, 2015. After the Adoption of the Working Group report, the implementation phase begun. To this end, the Government of Kenya developed a comprehensive UPR Implementation Matrix for all the Accepted recommendations that was launched on 3rd June, 2016. Thereafter, the Government of Kenya together with other UPR stakeholders were expected to implement the said recommendations.

In order to enhance the implementation, it is good practice for States to submit Mid Term Reports to the UN HRC between the UPR Cycles so as to bring out the progress they are making in this regard and also raise some of the challenges that the State is facing and the solutions they have put in place to overcome those challenges. The Government of Kenya submitted its Mid Term Report to the HRC in July, 2018 while CSOs have also just finalised this erstwhile report in October, 2018.

Timeline for UPR engagement in the current cycle

The 3rd Cycle UPR review is scheduled for January, 2020. The deadline for CSOs to submit their reports to the UN Human Rights Council will be June, 2019 while that for the Government of Kenya will be November, 2019.

Even though one may argue that this Mid Term Report may be long overdue but as already stated above, the UPR is a process and not an event. For this reason, this CSO MTR will be used to - 1/ Spur and improve the level of implementation of the 2nd Cycle UPR recommendations by bringing the said recommendation to the attention of the relevant MDAs of the Government of Kenya charged with the responsibility of implementing them considering the fact that the recommendations were made in 2015, which was before the last General Elections that were held in August, 2017. 2/ The report will also serve as a baseline for the 3rd Cycle not only for CSOs but in particular, for the Government of Kenya.

It is worth noting that in the spirit of the UPR process, the deliberations around this report as indeed should be the case in the entire UPR, should be done through constructive dialogue as opposed to naming and shaming each other over the non-implementation or veracity of the information.

II. METHODOLOGY

This report was prepared through a collaborative effort of various Civil Society Organizations and stakeholders under the guidance of the Steering Committee of the Kenya CSO Coalition on the UPR

The report has outlined the thematic areas upon which Kenya was reviewed at the last UPR in 2015. The 192 recommendations were clustered by the Government of Kenya into 4 major clusters namely Legal and Institutional Reforms; Civil and Political Rights; Economic, Social and Cultural Rights; and Group Rights under the Government of Kenya Universal Periodic Review Implementation Matrix 2015-2019 that was developed and launched in 2016. For ease of implementation and monitoring, the Government of Kenya clustered together recommendations that were touching on similar issues or required similar action. Each recommendation or set of recommendations were assigned a specific action which the government needed to undertake; indicators to monitor implementation; government body responsible; potential partners and timeframe to ensure implementation. Consequently, the analysis is based on the 225 indicators that the Government assigned to the said Accepted recommendations.

At the initial meetings, the members developed data collection tools which were subsequently shared with members. The team met in several meetings that were held between October, 2017 and October, 2018 to collect, collate and consolidate the information. The information was then verified and authenticated by the Steering Committee.

Each of the recommendations that were assessed were done through the indicators as contained in the said Government of Kenya Implementation Matrix. Most of the reports and reference documents were as much as possible from Government of Kenya and reputable International Organisations. The feedback clustered the thematic areas into the following categories and sub categories:

- ✓ Recommendations (from the review process)
 - ✓ Indicator(s)
 - ✓ Specific Action by Government
 - ✓ Status of Implementation
 - ✓ Complementary action by other Stakeholders

III. THEMATIC MID-TERM ASSESSMENT REPORTS

A. LEGAL AND INSTITUTIONAL REFORMS

1. Ratification of international instruments

1.1 Recommendation: Ratify international human rights instruments to which the State is not yet a party. Recommendation Nos. 142.1; 142.2; ESCR Rec 16; CRC Rec 77

1.1.1 Specific Action by Government: Enhance institutional and legal framework to ensure timely ratification of international Instruments.

Indicator	Status of Implementation by Government
Establishment of a fully functional Office of the Registrar of Treaties.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The office though established is not fully functional. There is established an Office of the Registrar of Treaties, which is operational and under the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. However, there is need for the Office of the Registrar of Treaties to be resourced and further, for the office to reach out to other stakeholders. The office is yet to undertake its functions such as monitoring implementation of treaties and informing state departments on their obligations. The office is yet to establish a national reporting mechanism which is to reach out to stakeholders for purposes of reporting and follow up on implementation of treaty obligations.
Fully Implemented Ratification of Treaties Act.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Treaty Making and Ratification Act, 2012 is now an Act of Parliament. Whereas the MoFA launched a Treaties database in June, 2017 under the Office of the Registrar of Treaties, there is failure on the part of the Registrar of Treaties to maintain records, monitor implementation of treaties, inform State Departments to observe and uphold obligations. There is need for greater co-ordination between the Office of the Registrar of Treaties, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and the Office of the Attorney General and Department of Justice and other relevant State Departments. There is currently a proposed amendment to the Treaty Making and Ratification Act, 2012 vide the Treaty Making and Ratification Amendment Bill, 2018 to align its provisions to the current constitution. Key proposals include the inclusion of Senate in the ratification process.
Ratify Optional Protocol (No. 2) of the UNCRC.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Kenya signed the Optional Protocol (No. 2) of the UNCRC in 2000 but has not yet ratified it. There is no legitimate reason why Kenya has still not ratified the same.
Withdrawal of reservation on paragraph 2 of Article 10 of the ICESCR.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The reservation on paragraph 2 of Article 10 of the ICESCR which requires the State to make provision for paid maternity leave has not been withdrawn. However, the State has made significant legislative and administrative progress as provided under Section 29(1) of the Employment Act that provides for 3 months paid maternity leave for female employees. In addition, the State has also made provision for 2 weeks paid paternity leave under Section 29(8) of the same Act.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Further, Article 27(4) of the Constitution prohibits discrimination under any ground including pregnancy. In light of the progress made so far, there is no reason for State to sustain the reservation.

2. Compliance with Treaty body reporting obligations and co-operation with U.N. Human Rights Special Procedures

2.1 Recommendation: Submit due reports to the UN Treaty Bodies. Recommendation Nos. 142.34 142.36

2.1.1 Specific Action by Government: Timely submission of reports to UN Treaty Bodies.

Indicator	Status of Implementation by Government	Complementary action by other Stakeholders
ICCPR State party report is finalized and submitted to the Human Rights Committee.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The 4th ICCPR State party report was due in July, 2015 is yet to be submitted. • The Department of Justice is seriously under-resourced. The Government has drastically reduced funding for human rights related programmes. • The Government needs to improve the quality and coordination of data collection for the reporting across the relevant State Departments and Agencies. • There is need for the Government to work closely with CSOs for implementation of recommendations as issued. 	OHCHR and KNCHR have supported the State in the drafting of the ICCPR 4 th State party report. CSOs also participated and contributed to the development of the State report.
Finalized and submitted report to the CEDAW committee.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Kenya's report to the CEDAW was due 1st February, 2015 but was submitted in March, 2016. • The report was considered on 2nd November, 2017 and published on 6th November, 2017. The Concluding Observations were given by the Committee in January 2018.
Finalized 3rd Periodic Report on UNCAT to the Committee against Torture.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The 3rd Report to the Committee against Torture was due on 31st May, 2017 has been submitted as of 3rd August 2018. 	OHCHR and KNCHR have supported the State in the drafting of the CAT State party report. CSOs also participated and contributed to the development of the State report.

2.2 Recommendation: Extend a standing invitation to various Human Rights Council mandate holders. Recommendation Nos. 142.35; 142.37; 142.38; 142.39

2.2.1 Specific Action by Government: Timely processing of the request from the Special Rapporteur on Protection of the Right to Freedom of Opinion and Expression within 60 days.

Indicator	Status of Implementation
Time taken to process the request from the Special Rapporteur.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Special Rapporteur on Protection of the Right to Freedom of Opinion and Expression sent a request and there has been no response from the Government. Out of these, only 36 had been characterized as violent. Article 19 documented 111 protestors, among them 32 students, were arrested and charged for what police termed as illegal protests and participating in riots.³⁵ From media reports and accounts from monitors, the police violated the law as the use of force was used against protestors and HRDs who were largely unarmed. Between 2016 and 2017, police officers involved in violent dispersal of unarmed protestors have not been held to account, a fact which points to the high levels of impunity in Kenya's security sector.³⁶

PBO Act operationalized.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Government of Kenya is yet to operationalize the PBO Act despite several Court Orders and Judgement. The expansion and protection of civic space and liberties in Kenya has come a long way, right from the struggles for independence and reforms, to the adoption and implementation of the new Constitution and other legal frameworks. Moreover, in January 2013, the then president Mwai Kibaki assented into law the Public Benefits Organizations (PBO) Act of 2013, a new legal framework that is intended to ensure a more efficient, transparent and publicly accountable civil society sector with effective leadership. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> CSO's have instituted a case in the High Court that seeks to operationalize the PBO Act. However, between 2013 and 2015, there were no less than 5 attempts by Parliament to amend this fairly progressive law in what was a seemingly serious and malicious intent to cripple the Civil Society Organisations (CSO) sector. In 2016, major strides were made with the Cabinet Secretary for Devolution and Planning, Hon. Mwangi Kiunjuri on 9th September, 2016 announcing the commencement of the PBO Act, without any changes on it. On 31st October, 2016, the High Court also gave a ruling compelling the Government to gazette the Commencement by 11th November, 2016. Despite this directive and legal order, the Act is yet to be operationalised. CSOs resorted to going back to court, and on 23rd May 2017, the High Court found the Cabinet Secretary (CS) in charge of the Ministry of Interior and National Co-Ordination in contempt of court for failing to heed to the 1st judgment of October 2016, ordering again commencement within 30 days thereof. The 30 days elapsed, and the Act is yet to be commenced. The government remains non-committal.

Of this number, 2,655 were men and 92 were women. The President also signed pardons, releasing 102 long term convicts who had been thoroughly vetted and recommended for release by the Power of Mercy Committee. • POMAC has conducted a series of public consultations and survey in various counties to seek the public's view on the abolition of the death penalty. • In 2015, the then Chief Justice launched sentencing guidelines. Despite these efforts, Courts of Law in Kenya continue to pass the death penalty for crimes for offences that carry the death sentence in the event that an accused person is found guilty of that specific offence. The Power of Mercy Committee has conducted a series of public perception surveys but the findings have not yet been made public. • On the 23rd March, 2018, the AG of Kenya appointed a 13 member Task Force to review the legislative framework on the death penalty.³⁷ This was after the Supreme Court declared the mandatory death sentence to be unconstitutional.³⁸ 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • CSO's has continued to engage with state and non-state actors to advocate for the abolition of the death penalty in Kenya. To this end, we have engaged with members of the National Assembly through the Parliamentary human rights caucus to ensure that the issue of the abolition of the death penalty is tabled for debate in the National Assembly. CSO's have not conducted any public perception surveys on the abolition of the death penalty. • CSO's have undertaken a series of advocacy initiatives at National and International level that have all been aimed at abolishing the death penalty. CSO's have engaged relevant stakeholders on repealing of repugnant sections of the Penal Code Act. The process of registration was not publicly provided, neither were the compensation amounts thus the process ended up being viewed as an electoral process and not genuine addressing of the IDPs. • Some IDPs, including those that after the 2007/2008 PEV missed the cut-off date for registration or fled to host communities, IDPs displaced by violence prior to 2007, or IDPs fleeing for reasons other than political violence such as those forcibly evicted from urban areas or government forests have been registered thus missing out on resettlement programmes, compensation or emergency assistance. • Proposals have continued to be made to review and update the draft IDP policy before its adoption for it to be brought in line with the IDPs Act. To also consider the adoption of a regulation to assist the operationalisation of the IDPs Act.

Kenya was found to have failed to comply with its statutory obligations to consult with the ICC and to take all reasonable steps to execute a request for co-operation from the Court, including by not providing clear, relevant and timely responses or taking any meaningful steps to compel production of requested information. According to the ICC, the non-cooperation prevented the Court from exercising its functions and powers under the Statute. • There has been a general failure to establish an International Criminal Division (ICD) within the Judiciary given that the ODPP has been categorical that he will not be espoused to any cases to the ICD related to the post-election violence. Secondly that he had no cases to espouse to it given that he has neither requested for it nor felt the need to have such a division established. Lastly, the drive to set up the ICD was deflated once the ICC terminated the Kenyan cases. Conversations around establishment of the ICD was to support a drive to “bringing the ICC cases home so as to ‘kill them off’” here in Kenya. Given the ICC terminated the Kenyan cases, the Executive and the Judiciary have not felt the need for an ICD. • The former AG, Prof. Githu Muigai reported in early 2018 that the ICD is in place and is awaiting the appointment of a prosecutor to formally be launched. 	The civil society continues to call for the urgent need to establish the ICD for purposes of ensuring prosecution of international and transnational crimes in future.

15.1 Recommendations: To continue with the initiatives to promote and protect the people's right to adequate housing. Recommendation Nos. 142.155; 142.157; ESCR rec 6; ESCR rec no. 46

15.1.1 Specific Action by Government: To take legislative, policy and other measures to guarantee the right of access to adequate housing particularly for the vulnerable and the marginalized.

Resettlement and Forced Eviction Bill compliant with international standards enacted.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Land Laws Amendment Act of 2016 has provisions at Section 98 that stipulates how humane evictions should be conducted. However, there is failure by State agencies to respect the guidelines particularly in the informal sector settlements. The Eviction and Resettlement Bill was shot down in Parliament and instead they passed the Land Laws (Amendment) Act 2016 which is silent on the UN basic principles and guidelines on evictions and displacement of communities and groups. The State has violated the international standards with regard to forced evictions as was witnessed in July, 2018 during the evictions of residents in Kibera slums to create room for the construction of the Kibera Link Road 	Stakeholders are pushing for a separate piece of legislation that enumerates the procedures to be followed by the State during evictions and resettlement. Community mobilization and participation. Civil Society Organizations have strongly recommended the formulation of a legislation that provides safeguards on Eviction and Resettlement.
Kenya Slum Upgrading programme (KENSUP) implemented and benefit the intended beneficiaries.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The National Slum Upgrading and Prevention Policy has been approved and adopted to guide the process of slum upgrading and prevention initiatives. However, the slow implementation of the Kenya Slum Upgrading Programme and the lack of advanced strategies have slowed down the process of building the second phase of the project. The lack of proper consultation and involvement of local community and Civil Society stakeholders have also contributed to the failure. The State must have an engagement strategy to ensure inclusivity in project implementation. In 2010, the demand for urban housing was estimated at 80,000 units a year, with demand projected to increase to 	Civil Society Organizations have been working to ensure transparency, accountability in enumeration and proper identification of the beneficiaries; and supporting meetings and awareness creation.

	nearly 300,000 units a year by 2050. By comparison, in 2013 only 15,000 housing construction permits were issued in Nairobi County Government where housing demand is high. With this level of deficit, achieving the Kenya Vision 2030 will not be possible. Noteworthy, the design of the units does not consider infusing human rights principles, for example cultural rights. Most units are single bedroom, with children and parents sharing rooms. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The State must have an engagement strategy to ensure inclusivity in project implementation of local community and Civil Society stakeholders. • Effective monitoring mechanisms must be put in place to ensure project implementation is on course. The design of the units also does not consider infusing human rights principles, for example cultural rights. Most units are single bedroom, with children and parents sharing rooms.
Number of people in rural and urban areas per County unit accessing adequate housing.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The inception of Urban Regeneration Projects within urban areas is crucial in improving access to affordable housing. However, the process of land acquisition, demolition and identification of beneficiaries together with proper involvement of the masses are the challenges that must be addressed. • Several cases have been filed in Court challenging the processes being applied by the County Government such as is being experienced in Nairobi and Mombasa County. • Additionally the human rights issues around forced evictions must be considered to eradicate resistance. • Also noteworthy is that construction of houses does not follow a human rights based approach. They do not cater to the needs of PWDs as most lack access mobility making them inaccessible to PWDs, in particular, physical disability. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Civil Society Organizations are currently working with County Governments on urban regeneration and renewal programs. These programs aim at improving housing standards by demolishing old structures and putting up new units. CSOs are providing support through community mobilization, ensuring the law is followed to avoid stalling, offering technical support, creating awareness among communities, supporting county planning meetings and ensuring effective public participation.
Kenya Informal Settlement Improvement Project (KISIP) is implemented.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The project has commenced and is ongoing in 15 towns in Kenya. According to Government reports, so far 30 meter high mast security lighting have been installed; a total of 43.26 kms of access roads have been constructed to bitumen standards; a total of 35.429 kms of foot paths have been constructed; and a total of 46.98 kms of drainage system constructed. However, while access roads were constructed in this project, it is noteworthy that some 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Community organization and mobilization; trainings on conflict management & resolution; Land tenure negotiation and supporting consultative meetings.

	pedestrian walk ways were also constructed. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The challenge is that the commencement of the project was extremely delayed. Further, the project was complicated with little or no access to information that would have enabled stakeholders to engage meaningfully. Due to competing interests, communities have found it difficult to choose between housing as a serious rights issue and short term needs given the limited resources. The government needs a robust strategy for meaningful engagement in setting community priorities.
Number of low cost houses constructed annually.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • According to the World Bank, the housing deficit in urban areas is estimated at 80,000 annually. With the advent of devolution, this figure is expected to rise to 300,000 annually by 2050. The State has so far not invested in low cost housing. The State should make a deliberate effort to develop low cost housing that targets the low income areas. • County governments must take deliberate steps and leverage on the legal and conducive policy environment to invest in social and low cost housing projects to avert possible expansion and growth of informal settlements. It is also critical that County governments should invest in urban planning to ensure organization and easy delivery of services including water and sanitation. • The Government should employ a more holistic approach that not only focuses on provision of housing but also includes socio-economic empowerment so as to avoid a situation where the beneficiaries sell or lease the houses for purposes of income generation. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Civil society organizations working with social movements have been advocating for social housing – a model housing project that ensures low cost houses are available particularly for residents in the low income areas. This concept is being taken up by county governments; however, political interests have so far surpassed objectivity in the process. As a result, communities have resisted some of the projects in Mombasa, for example due to lack of proper framework for public participation.
Number of titles deeds issued in Informal Settlements.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The State in 2017 promised to issue 3 million Title Deeds through a robust land management system. In June 2017 the State through its Ministry of Lands had processed 3.2 million Title Deeds including regularization of informal urban centres particular Kibra within Nairobi County. The issuance of individual title deeds for 288 acres of land in Kibra for the Nubian community living in the area. The State should come up with a framework to regularize land in the informal settlements. Conflicts are imminent especially in areas like Mukuru, Kibera and Mathare slums. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Non state land actors have worked closely with the State and provided technical support, advice and input in key decision making processes. Land adjudication and tenure system is what these have been advocating. • Redress of historical land injustices and management of community land. • The issuance of Title Deeds in informal settlements remains a grey area particularly in urban spaces which is public land. This is further propagated by ethnicity and corruption within the sector.

16. Rights to Water and Sanitation

16.1 Recommendation: Improve access to water and sanitation services particularly for rural and suburban communities. Recommendation Nos. 142.147; 142.154; ESCR Rec 50; CRC Rec 56a

16.1.1 Specific Action by Government: Enact and implement the Water Bill.

Water Act that conforms to Constitution of Kenya, 2010 and regional and international instruments that Kenya has signed and ratified.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Water Act was signed into law in 2016 and operationalized in 2017. The Act conforms to the Constitution of Kenya, 2010 and has been aligned with regional and international human rights standards. However, the process of implementation is very slow. The National Water Policy is being reviewed so as to be in conformity with the Water Act and Constitution of Kenya, 2010. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Civil Society Organizations participated in the development of the Water Act through submission of Memoranda and supporting meetings to finalize the then Bill. The organizations have this far continued to create awareness on the legislation, capacity building for county government officials to understand the content of the Act and supporting county governments to develop their own laws in conformity with the national laws.

16.1.2 Specific Action by Government: Enact and implement Water Regulatory Framework.

Regulated water prices that are compliant with tariff guidelines set up by the Water Services Regulatory Board.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The process of developing and standardizing tariffs to comply with Article 43 and the Water Act, 2016 was finalized by Water Services Regulatory Board. The Board has developed Tariff Guidelines to regulate water services. However, these guidelines need to be reviewed to align with the Water Act, 2016. While the process of aligning water services delivery with the Water Act, 2016 is ongoing, the Board needs to review the Drinking Water Quality Guidelines, non-revenue water standards and consumer engagement guidelines to reflect and comply with the law. There is need to monitor the implementation of the tariffs and 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Stakeholders particularly the Civil Society, Water Action Groups and other institutions meaningfully participated in development of the guidelines and tariffs through public participation forums. Percentage increase in the number of individuals and households accessing adequate water and sanitation especially for rural, sub urban and most vulnerable groups.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> According to the Water Services Regulatory Board Report Issue No. 10 published in 2018, there has been an improvement in performance of two percentage points from 55.9% to 56.9% in terms of coverage for access to safe drinking water. The population in the service area (urban and suburban areas) of the commercialized utilities increased by 562,026 (2.34%) compared to an increase of 630,846 (6.01%) in the number of people served. The number of connections increased by 14,674, which is a decrease of 60% compared to the previous year. Under the Vision 2030 goals, one connection should serve an average of 12 people. The implementation of the National Water Master Plan is ongoing. However, the slow level of implementation and meager resources allocated to the process is being outrun by climate change, droughts and growing demand for water both in urban and rural areas. There is a lot of emphasis on water supply and connections, but very little efforts have been directed towards resource management. There is need to invest in Water Resources Management and other sources particularly ground water and rain water harvesting to minimize surface water depletion. 	Civil Society Organizations are actively involved in promoting the WASH agenda through education, awareness creation, capacity building for counties, water service providers and convening meetings to advance Water Resources Management.

16.1.4 Specific Action by Government: Take measures to improve sanitation.

Number of urban and rural households with individual or shared	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The national on-site sanitation coverage decreased by 0.5% from 66.9% in FY 2014/15 to 66.4% in FY 2015/16. The urban on-site sanitation coverage decreased by 0.7% from 72.1% to 69.4% in FY 2015/16. Rural on-site sanitation coverage decreased by 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Access to improved sanitation facilities remain the greatest challenge for both urban and rural households. The urban population influx is not in tandem with increase in urban sanitation facilities leading to the decrease in access. Stakeholders in the sector have been pushing for legislative, policy and institutional reforms to create an environment in which major changes in the sector can take place. The current government has moved the sanitation component which was previously toilet facilities.	0.4% from 64.5% to 64.1% in FY 2015/16. The national sewerage coverage was about 10.2% in FY 2014/15 and 10.5% in FY 2015/16. The number of people connected by utilities to sewerage was at 15% in FY 2014/15 nationally. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The creation of the Ministry of Water and Sanitation is a crucial starting point towards increasing access and coverage both in urban and rural areas. • However, this must be followed with allocation of sufficient resources, proper planning and implementation of projects to achieve the sanitation bit both in the Vision 2030 and the Sustainable Development Goal 6. 	neglected from the Ministry of Public Health to the Ministry of Water and Sanitation. This is crucial in terms of institutional reforms. Actors are still advocating for allocation of resources and investments in sanitation to increase access and coverage.

Number of urban and rural areas with proper sewerage systems.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All the major urban areas in Kenya particularly Nairobi, Mombasa and Kisumu lack sufficient sewerage infrastructure to serve the ever growing urban populations. • According to the World Bank Report titled Republic of Kenya: Kenya Urbanisation Review, 2016, only about 18% of the urban population is covered by a sewerage system, 70% rely on septic tanks and pit latrines, and the rest have access to no sanitation services at all. • Existing waste water treatment systems operate at very low efficiencies (about 16% of design capacity for 15 plants assessed in 2010), leading to discharge of untreated effluents. • For the rural areas, citizens use pit latrines and septic tanks for their sanitation needs, sewerage infrastructure in rural areas is almost zero if non-existent at all. • Poor planning and lack of sufficient investment remain the major accelerators of sewer coverage challenges. County governments need to invest in sanitation infrastructure development to meet the needs of the growing population. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Sector stakeholders have worked with the Ministry of Public Health, the defunct Ministry of Water and Irrigation to conduct advocacy around budget increase for sanitation, community mobilization to increase coverage in the informal settlements, conflict management and resolution, creating dialogue platforms for government to interact with affected communities and reach a consensus. • Civil Society Organizations have been advocating for transfer of the sanitation component from the Ministry of Public Health to the newly formed Ministry of Water and Sanitation and this has since borne fruit.

Need to revive discussions on the Food Security Bill.
Reformed agrarian systems that achieve the most sustainable and efficient development and utilization of natural resources, including eradication of impediments to agriculture.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Irrigation and mechanization of agriculture ongoing. Agribusiness has been encouraged and is being implemented. • Despite government efforts, there still exist several impediments to agriculture including the high cost of inputs; corruption in the agriculture sector. • There is need for the State to provide information on mega projects on food security to allow for interrogation and monitoring for effectiveness and implementation. • Presently, 21 irrigation projects have stalled after the government spent KShs. 880 Million during the year 2015/16. A total of KShs. 20.8 Billion was allocated to irrigation projects all over the country during the 2016/17 FY. • In particular, the government spent a total of KShs. 7 Billion in the failed Galana Kulalu Flagship Project which was projected to produce 20 million bags of maize but only yielded 103,000 bags which translates to KShs. 708,000 to grow maize per acre.

This can only feed the entire country for half a day. • The State relied heavily on importing maize from Mexico which was estimated to last for only 6 days. In 2018, there have been cases of corruption affecting the Strategic Grain Reserve with instances where individuals are paid without supplying any maize to the SGR.

Further, the cash transfer program for the elderly persons has not covered the entire country. 	Several stakeholders also do play a key role, such as the Faith Communities, CSOs, Family and neighborhood support structures and UN agencies.

Resettlement and Forced Eviction Bill adopted and implemented.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Evictions and Resettlement Bill was shot down by Parliament. Selected provisions on evictions and resettlement included in the Community Land Act. • However, there is failure by State agencies to respect the guidelines particularly in the informal sector settlements. The State has violated the international standards with regard to forced evictions as was witnessed in July, 2018 during the evictions of residents in Kibera slums to create room for the construction of the Kibera Link Road • The Eviction and Resettlement Bill was shot down in Parliament and instead they passed the Land Laws (Amendment) Act, 2016 which is silent on the UN Basic Principles and Guidelines on Evictions and Displacement of Communities and Groups. • The State through Parliament needs to pass a standalone Resettlement and Forced Eviction Law. The Land Laws (Amendment) Act, 2016 has provisions at Section 98 that stipulates how humane evictions should be conducted. 	Civil Society Organizations have strong recommended the formulation of a legislation that provides safeguards on Eviction and Resettlement.

Only 44.2% of Kenyan women are able to access modern contraceptives.⁸⁰ 58% of married women aged 15-49 use modern contraceptives against a target of 70%.⁸¹ Women with disabilities, in rural areas and adolescents have the highest unmet needs. The State should take steps to ensure that women and adolescent girls, including those in rural areas, those of low income, and those with disabilities have access to comprehensive information on the full range of family planning methods available. The State should also increase the financial investment in reproductive health services. The State should increase the financial investment in reproductive health services in-order to address the challenges occasioned by the global gag rule. Increased total health expenditure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> There is an increase in total health financing. In 2014/15, the national health budget had allocated 7% of GDP to health. The national budget for 2016/17 had the same percentage of allocation. The allocated amounts had been lower than 7% in the previous financial years. There is an urgent need for the State to increase its domestic financing for health to ensure sustainability. There is also a duplication of interventions especially between County and National governments which is causing waste of resources e.g. some Counties have UHC programmes and the national governments has the same programme targeting the same population. 	According to the Health Financing Profile Kenya May 2016 (supported by USAID and PEPFAR Health Policy Project), 57% of the health budget in 2015/2015 financial year was funded by development partners. ⁸⁶ TI Kenya has submitted a memorandum to Nairobi County Government to lobby for an increase in health sector financing and needs based budgeting.

All these numbers are way below the recommended ratio of 1 doctor to 300 patients. • There are trained Kenyan doctors who are unemployed. Despite this, the Government hired doctors from Cuba. • The State needs to address duplication of services. • Increase the health budget to 15% of GDP as recommended in the Abuja Declaration of which Kenya is a signatory. • The State needs to the action to reduce strikes by medical personnel by addressing their issues. • Increased number of strikes and industrial action by doctors over the last few years has been a major hindrance to accessing healthcare. KNCHR has in place a violations monitoring and response mechanism to which SOGIE HROs escalate cases. KNCHR is working with SOGIE HROs in advocating for the promotion and protection of human rights for all. KNCHR is working with SOGIE HROs to develop a SOGIE Mainstreaming Policy for their operations and monitoring. NGEK has a running TWG on SGBV which includes various groups which has recently including SOGIE HROs. Whereas KCNHR has a draft SOGIE Mainstreaming policy, it yet to be finalized and adopted. NGECs also lacks an explicit mention gender and sexual minorities but has committed to a gender and sexual diversity sensitization training for staff. These will have a great impact on the ability of their monitoring mechanisms. The State should provide resources to ensure that these processes are not only completed but are also meaningfully engaging of all stakeholders.
