

Dear UPR secretariat,

This is just a brief submission on Fiji. We note that Fiji includes sexual orientation as a prohibited ground of discrimination in its Constitution. However, in view of the current constitutional uncertainty in the State, concerns have been expressed to us that constitutional protections for minority groups may be undermined. We therefore recommend that the provisions of the Constitution be rigorously upheld, including the constitutional prohibition of discrimination on grounds such as sexual orientation.

Best regards,

John

John Fisher
Co-Director, ARC International
62, rue de Vermont, #44
Geneva 1202

Ph: +41-22-733-4705

Cell: +41-79-508-3968

Fax: +41-22-734-4761

john@arc-international.net

www.arc-international.net