1. In 2012 and 2013, the Committee on the Rights of the Child (CRC), the Committee against Torture (CAT) and the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) encouraged Andorra to ratify OP-CAT, ICESCR, OP-ICESCR, ICRMW and ICPED.⁸
2. The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) welcomed the ratification and coming into effect of the 2005 Council of Europe Convention on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings and the Convention on Preventing and Combating Violence against Women and Domestic Violence, while it recommended accession to the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons and the 1961 Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness.⁹
3. CAT invited and CRC recommended that Andorra accede to the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Refugees and the Protocol thereto.¹⁰ CRC also recommended that it ratify the Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, especially Women and Children (Palermo Protocol).¹¹
4. CEDAW recommended that Andorra become a State member of the International Labour Organization (ILO) and ratify the Equal Remuneration Convention, 1951 (No. 100), the Discrimination (Employment and Occupation) Convention, 1958 (No. 111), and the Workers with Family Responsibilities Convention, 1981 (No. 156).¹²

B. Constitutional and legislative framework

5. CAT welcomed that Andorra gives precedence to all international treaties and agreements over national legislation and their direct application in domestic law.¹³
6. While Andorra was revising its Criminal Code to strengthen the legislation on child pornography, CRC noted with concern that the State had not abolished the requirement of double criminality in cases of extradition and prosecutions of offences committed abroad, including sexual abuse and exploitation.¹⁴
7. CRC recommended that Andorra adopt a law on child protection that provides guidance or directives regarding the roles and responsibilities of government agencies and personnel and the available local safeguards.¹⁵

C. Institutional and human rights infrastructure and policy measures

8. While noting Andorra's commitment during the UPR to establish a national human rights institution, CAT was concerned that such an institution had not yet been established. CAT recommended that Andorra establish an independent national institution in full compliance with the principles relating to the status of national institutions (the Paris Principles).¹⁶
9. CRC recommended that Andorra review the operation and activities of the Raonador del Ciutadà to ensure comprehensive and systematic monitoring of children's rights and access to this institution.¹⁷
10. CRC also recommended that Andorra strengthen its partnerships between various ministries and bodies by developing a comprehensive policy and strategy on children.¹⁸

III. Implementation of international human rights obligations, taking into account applicable international humanitarian law

A. Equality and non-discrimination

11. While noting that article 6 of the Constitution of Andorra includes a definition of discrimination in conformity with the Convention, CEDAW was concerned about the absence of a law on gender equality and recommended that the State adopt a comprehensive gender-equality and anti-discrimination law in line with the Convention and ensure that women have access to legal remedies to complain about discrimination and other violations of their rights.²⁴

12. CRC welcomed the establishment of the National Equality Commission in 2010 to address anti-discrimination issues.²⁵ CEDAW noted that the National Plan of Action for Equality did not address all areas covered by the Convention and recommended that Andorra provide its institutions with adequate resources with a view to achieving gender equality and to adopt a national action plan on gender equality that covers all areas of the Convention.²⁶

13. CEDAW urged Andorra to adopt a comprehensive policy to eliminate patriarchal attitudes and traditional stereotypes concerning the role of women in the family and in society that impede women's equal participation.²⁷

14. CEDAW called upon Andorra to adopt temporary special measures in all areas of the Convention in which women are underrepresented or disadvantaged.²⁸

15. CAT recommended that Andorra prohibit and punish discrimination and incitement to violence against vulnerable groups, ensure that all hate crimes are investigated and prosecuted and prevent and condemn hate speech.²⁹

16. The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) encouraged Andorra to give due consideration to the participation of communities, practitioners, cultural actors and non-governmental organizations from civil society as well as vulnerable groups and to ensure that equal opportunities are given to women and girls to address gender disparities.³⁰

B. Right to life, liberty and security of the person

17. CAT recommended that Andorra amend article 110 of the Criminal Code to include a definition of torture in conformity with the Convention.³¹

18. CAT recommended that Andorra establish an independent mechanism to monitor action by the police and investigate allegations and complaints of ill-treatment by members of the police force.³²

19. CAT was concerned that current disciplinary regulations still allowed for solitary confinement of up to 30 days as a disciplinary measure and recommended that Andorra amend disciplinary regulations to reduce the duration to as short a time as possible and only if necessary.³³ CAT also recommended that prison staff refrain from routinely subjecting prisoners to complete strip searches that may amount to degrading treatment.³⁴

20. With regard to measures to guarantee the fundamental rights of persons deprived of their liberty, CAT was concerned that in certain cases persons deprived of their liberty did not have access to a doctor of their choice.³⁵ Within the follow up framework, in 2014 Andorra reported that “Qualified Act No. 17/2014 [had been adopted] amending article 24, among others, of the Code of Criminal Procedure ... which was in force at the time The above-mentioned legislative amendment ... recognizes the right of all suspects and detained persons ... to be informed immediately of their right to, inter alia, be examined by a forensic physician and also by a doctor of their choice.”³⁶

21. CAT was concerned that electrical discharge weapons had been used in prisons and were included in the standard equipment of prison staff. It recommended that Andorra modify the regulations concerning the use of electrical discharge weapons so that they can be used exclusively in extreme and limited situations, and that it expressly prohibit their use on children and pregnant women.³⁷ Within the follow up framework, in 2014 Andorra reported to CAT that “the Government adopted regulations on 19 November 2014 on the carrying and use of firearms and on coercive methods authorized for use in prisons. The regulations are expected to enter into force on 27 November 2014”.³⁸

22. CEDAW was concerned about the increase in the number of cases of violence against women and urged Andorra to adopt a comprehensive law that addressed all forms of violence against women; amend the Criminal Code to criminalize all forms of violence against women, including sexual violence and stalking; and provide victims with redress and support.³⁹ CAT raised similar recommendations, in particular to sensitize and train law-enforcement personnel and judicial officials in the Public Prosecutor’s Office in investigating and prosecuting cases of domestic violence.⁴⁰ In response to the above-mentioned recommendation made by CAT, in 2014 Andorra reported that “all the parliamentary groups represented in the ... National Parliament have reached agreement on a bill aimed at combating and eliminating gender-based violence”, and that “the bill is expected to come before Parliament on 25 November 2014”.⁴¹

23. In the light of Andorra’s commitment under the UPR to enact and implement legislation that prohibits all corporal punishment of children, CAT was concerned that corporal punishment was not yet explicitly prohibited in all settings. CAT recommended that the State enact legislation that explicitly prohibits corporal punishment of children in all settings.⁴² UNESCO raised similar concerns.⁴³

24. CRC was concerned that the Act on Employment Contracts (2003) and the Regulation governing employment contracts for trainees (2004) did not comprehensively address the situation of children employed in the family context and that the Act did not provide a clear definition of “light work”. It recommended that Andorra ensure that the involvement of children in all contexts is in full compliance with the international child labour standards in terms of their age, working hours, working conditions, education and health.⁴⁴

25. CAT was concerned that the Criminal Code did not specifically criminalize trafficking in persons, and at the absence of legislative and policy measures to combat trafficking in persons for the purposes of forced labour or prostitution. CAT recommended that Andorra amend the Criminal Code with a view to specifically prohibiting and punishing trafficking in human beings and to provide redress to victims.⁴⁵ CEDAW raised similar recommendations.⁴⁶

C. Administration of justice, including impunity and the rule of law

26. CAT recommended that Andorra introduce appropriate penalties for acts of torture and genocide beyond 10 years of imprisonment and ensure that the prosecution and punishment of the crime of torture is not subject to a statute of limitations.⁴⁷

27. CRC noted with appreciation that the age of criminal responsibility in Andorra was 18 years. Noting that a very few number of children were incarcerated in detention centres, CRC recommended that Andorra ensure that children are accompanied and cared for by professionals and that they are always held entirely separate from the adult detainees.⁴⁸

28. Despite Andorra's agreement to the recommendation made under the UPR to introduce practical measures to lower the number of pretrial detainees, CAT was concerned that no sufficient action had been taken in this regard and recommended that the State adopt measures to reduce the number of pretrial detainees.⁴⁹

D. Right to privacy, marriage and family life

29. CRC recommended that Andorra safeguard children's right to privacy in the media and ensure that children are not exposed to harmful media content.⁵⁰

30. CRC noted that, despite its previous concern about the low minimum age of marriage of 16 years of age, and 14 years of age with the permission of a judge, Andorra had not increased the minimum age of marriage. CRC recommended that Andorra amend its legislation and increase the minimum age of marriage to 18 years.⁵¹ CEDAW had a similar concern and recommendation.⁵²

31. CEDAW appreciated the amendments adopted in 2004 to the Qualified Marriage Act, abolishing the requirement for widowed and divorced women to wait for a 300-day period before remarrying.⁵³

32. CEDAW recommended that Andorra implement Qualified Act 21/2005, which provides for rights for women in stable unions.⁵⁴

E. Freedom of religion or belief, expression, association and peaceful assembly, and right to participate in public and political life

33. UNESCO informed that freedom of expression, communication and information were guaranteed in the Andorra Constitution. However there was a need for a freedom of information law in the country. It also encouraged decriminalizing defamation, currently in its Criminal Code, and placing it within a civil code in accordance with international standards.⁵⁵

34. UNESCO stressed that Andorra did not take sufficient measures to further cooperate with international or civil society despite its commitment during the first UPR cycle Andorra.⁵⁶

F. Right to work and to just and favourable conditions of work

35. CEDAW welcomed the adoption of the Labour Relations Code (2009), which prohibits discrimination on the grounds of sex.⁵⁷

36. CEDAW recommended that Andorra adopt a legislative framework to recognize the principle of equal pay for work of equal value and adopt policies to achieve substantive equality of women and men in the labour market and close the gender pay gap.⁵⁸

37. CEDAW recommended that Andorra prohibit sexual harassment in the workplace, raise the awareness of labour inspectors regarding exploitative practices in the workplace, and prosecute offenders.⁵⁹

G. Right to social security and to an adequate standard of living

38. CRC recommended that Andorra define strategic budgetary lines for children in disadvantaged or vulnerable situations that may require affirmative social protection measures, and protect those budgetary lines even in situations of economic crisis, natural disasters or other emergencies.⁶⁰

H. Right to health

39. CEDAW noted with concern the criminalization of abortion and the interpretation of the right to life in the Constitution as a limitation on women's sexual and reproductive health rights. It called upon Andorra to decriminalize abortion and provide access to legal abortion in cases of threats to the life or health of the pregnant woman, rape, incest and severe foetal impairment.⁶¹ CRC raised similar recommendations with a view to guaranteeing the best interests of pregnant teenagers.⁶²

40. CRC urged Andorra to increase the availability of confidential and youth-friendly health services throughout the country, to enhance the availability of contraceptive services, and to promote sex education targeted at adolescents, with special attention to the prevention of early pregnancies and sexually transmitted diseases.⁶³ CEDAW raised similar recommendations.⁶⁴

41. CEDAW recommended that Andorra devise and implement gender-sensitive programmes to prevent HIV/AIDS and include disadvantaged and marginalized groups of women, such as prostitutes and migrant women, therein.⁶⁵

42. CEDAW called upon Andorra to ensure affordable access for all migrant women and girls to the health-care system and consider amending the legislation restricting access to health care on the basis of legal residence.⁶⁶

I. Right to education

43. CEDAW was concerned about the low enrolment of women in traditionally male-dominated fields of study and recommended the implementation of a strategy to promote the enrolment of women in vocational education and training in those fields.⁶⁷ CEDAW recommended that school curricula, academic programmes and professional training for teachers cover women's rights and promote gender equality.⁶⁸

J. Cultural rights

44. UNESCO encouraged Andorra to fully implement the relevant provisions that promote access to and participation in cultural heritage and creative expressions, conducive to implementing the right to take part in cultural life.⁶⁹

K. Persons with disabilities

45. While noting the measures taken to ensure that children with disabilities enjoy the same protection and rights as other children, CRC was concerned that children with disabilities continued to experience social discrimination and recommended that Andorra raise awareness and sensitize about rights and special needs of children with disabilities; and provide children with disabilities with equal access to adequate social and health services.⁷⁰

46. CRC was concerned about practices and stereotypes that discriminated against girls and children with disabilities in Andorra. It recommended that Andorra remove all discriminatory practices against girls and children with disabilities, provide adequate protection from discrimination and formulate a comprehensive strategy to eliminate negative attitudes and practices and deep-rooted stereotypes that discriminate against both girls and women with disabilities.⁷¹

47. CEDAW recommended that Andorra ensure access to employment for women with disabilities by providing adequate vocational training and accessible information on employment opportunities.⁷²

48. CEDAW was concerned about the wide gap between girls and boys with disabilities having access to education. It recommended that girls and boys with disabilities be given access to education and that Andorra combat discrimination against schoolgirls on the basis of sex and disability.⁷³

L. Minorities and indigenous peoples

M. Migrants, refugees and asylum seekers

49. UNHCR recommended that Andorra establish a refugee status determination procedures that is fully gender and age sensitive.⁷⁴

50. CRC recommended that Andorra revise and amend the Qualified Act on Immigration of 2002 to permit family reunification for holders of temporary immigration permits.⁷⁵

51. CEDAW expressed concerned about the disproportionately high number of migrant women who were victims of violence,⁷⁶ and recommended that Andorra conduct a study on the situation of migrant women and adopt a legislative framework to address the rights and needs of women migrant workers and women asylum seekers, including measures to protect all migrant women against refoulement.⁷⁷

52. CEDAW recommended that Andorra ensure that the Labour Relations Code applies to women migrant workers, including domestic workers, and that they have access to legal complaint procedures for the protection of their rights; and that Andorra regulate and monitor the situation of women domestic workers.⁷⁸

53. CRC noted with concern that Andorra, during the UPR in 2010, rejected the recommendation to take steps to guarantee access to fundamental social human rights for foreign residents, including their children, regardless of their migratory status. CRC recommended that the National Equality Commission examine the condition of the rights of migrant children and children of seasonal workers and promote and protect their rights.⁷⁹

54. CAT recommended that Andorra create a procedure for determination of refugee status and ensure that it does not expel, return (refouler) or extradite a person to another State where there are substantial grounds for believing that the person would be in danger of being subjected to torture.⁸⁰ CRC raised related recommendation regarding unaccompanied and refugee children, and recommended that Andorra enact legislation on asylum seekers and refugees in conformity with international standards.⁸¹
