

General Assembly

Distr.: General
7 May 2015

Original: English

UNEDITED VERSION

Human Rights Council
Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review
Twenty-second session
Geneva, 4-15 May 2015

Draft report of the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review*

Mongolia

* The annex to the present report is circulated as received

Contents

	Paragraphs	Page
Introduction	1–4	3
I Summary of the proceedings of the review process	5–108	3
A. Presentation by the State under review	5–28	3
B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review	29–106	6
II. Conclusions and/or recommendations.....	107–108	14
Annex
Composition of the delegation		25

Introduction

1. The Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review (UPR), established in accordance with Human Rights Council resolution 5/1 of 18 June 2007, held its twenty-second session from 4 to 15 May 2015. The review of Mongolia was held at the 4th meeting on 05 May 2015. The delegation of Mongolia was headed by Mr. Tsogoo UUGANGEREL. At its 10th meeting held on 08 May 2015, the Working Group adopted the report on Mongolia.
2. On 13 January 2015, the Human Rights Council selected the following group of rapporteurs (troika) to facilitate the review of Mongolia: Cuba, Sierra Leone, and The Netherlands.
3. In accordance with paragraph 15 of the annex to resolution 5/1 and paragraph 5 of the annex to resolution 16/21, the following documents were issued for the review of Mongolia:
 - (a) A national report submitted/written presentation made in accordance with paragraph 15 (a) (A/HRC/WG.6/22/MNG/1);
 - (b) A compilation prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (b) (A/HRC/WG.6/22/MNG/2);
 - (c) A summary prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (c) (A/HRC/WG.6/22/MNG/3).
4. A list of questions prepared in advance by Czech Republic, Germany, Liechtenstein, Mexico, Norway, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland was transmitted to Mongolia through the troika. These questions are available on the extranet of the UPR.

I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. The delegation of Mongolia stated that UPR recommendations would serve as a soft law, a self-monitoring system for the Government, and an instrument for civil society organizations to demand effective implementation from the Government.
6. Mongolia, following the first UPR review, adopted an action plan for the implementation of recommendations. Private, public, and NGO stakeholders all contributed their best efforts to the successful implementation of the plan and recommendations. The efforts of such collaboration were incorporated into the Mid-term voluntary report submitted to the Human Rights Council in May 2014. The delegation of Mongolia highlighted a forum that consolidates over forty human rights NGOs that carry out sustainable activities to improve the human rights situation in Mongolia. This experience of cooperation with NGOs in Mongolia is illustrative of how the UPR facilitates the strengthening of mutual understanding and confidence between governmental agencies and human rights NGOs.
7. In 2012, Mongolia acceded to the OP2-ICCPR aiming at the abolition of the death penalty. In 2014, Mongolia ratified the International Convention for the protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance and the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman and Degrading Treatment or Punishment as reflected in recommendations from the first UPR review, and voluntary pledges made by Mongolia as a 2015 Election Candidate to the Human Rights Council.

8. Since the submission of the national report for the second cycle of the UPR, the State Great Khural (Parliament) of Mongolia had ratified in April the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on a communications procedure, and in May, the Minamata Convention on Mercury. Furthermore, domestic ratification of the ILO Convention No. 176 concerning Safety and Health in Mines and the Kampala amendments to the Rome Statute is expected to be completed this year.

9. Following the commencement in 2012 of a comprehensive legal reform, Mongolia has enacted a number of laws and regulations aimed at ensuring human rights. As part of this process, the Parliament of Mongolia is considering a draft laws in the field of criminal law that includes a revised Criminal Code. The delegation of Mongolia noted there was a lengthy time process for the reform to enjoy public support, be transparent, as well as subject to independent monitoring, and adequate human and financial resources.

10. In response to an advanced question concerning the death penalty, Mongolia reiterated its support for the abolition of the death penalty. On 14 January 2010, the President of Mongolia declared a moratorium and granted a pardon to all persons sentenced to death prior to the moratorium. In the draft Criminal Code that is currently under parliamentary review, the death penalty is excluded from the classification of criminal punishment.

11. The delegation of Mongolia explained it is confident that with the ratification of the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture in 2014, the introduction of concurrent monitoring by the Sub-Committee on Prevention of Torture, and the National Preventive Mechanism, a tangible process in preventing torture, as well as holding perpetrators liable would be established. Furthermore, the National Human Rights Commission of Mongolia, based on the relevant laws of Mongolia and its independent status from the Government, would be assigned the functions of the national preventive mechanism in compliance with the Optional Protocol. The delegation further acknowledged that the current definition of torture did not include all forms of torture in compliance with Article 1 of the Convention against Torture; however, the draft Criminal Code under Parliamentary review provides a definition of torture, as well as applicable liability sanctions in accordance with the Convention.

12. The delegation acknowledged criticism by civil society organizations concerning the disbandment of the Special Investigation Unit of the General Prosecutor's Office, and the allocation of its functions to the Anti-Corruption Authority and Police according to the nature of the crime. Moreover, it was noted that victims of torture enjoy the right to be compensated for both material and moral damage caused by unlawful acts of the investigator, prosecutor, or judge.

13. A cluster of new laws focusing on the judiciary were adopted in 2013 to strengthen the right to a fair and independent trial. This includes the separation by law of court administration and court procedure, which ensures that judges are free from administration management and its influence. Moreover, all court hearings are recorded as they are equipped with video and audio surveillance. Court decisions are published on the courts website with the exception of closed court hearings as required by law enabling access for all stakeholders to analyze and review court decisions, the application of laws, and the exercise of the rights of the case participants in the court hearings. Measures were also being taken to gradually increase the salary of judges.

14. In response to an advanced question regarding human trafficking, the delegation explained that in 2012, the Law on Combatting Human Trafficking was enacted. In addition to concluding bilateral agreements on cooperation to combat crimes of human trafficking with different countries, in 2013, Mongolia enacted regulations to provide assistance to citizens who became victims of human trafficking abroad.

15. The 2011 Law on Gender Equality contains several provisions for protecting and promoting the rights of women, including the prohibition of all forms of discrimination against women in the political, economic, social, and family domains, as well as the introduction of a quota requirement for women's participation at the decision-making level of the ministries, agencies, and local governing organizations. The delegation of Mongolia noted significant achievement and progress in gender equality since the enactment of this law. Furthermore, prior to and during the legislative process of the Law, Mongolia organized public awareness activities and campaigns. An example of the positive outcome of both the enactment of the Law and the awareness raising campaigns is the increased number of complaints related to sexual harassment in workplaces that were received by the National Human Rights Commission and then transferred to the law enforcement agencies for investigation.

16. Mongolia has established a National Committee on Gender Equality led by the Prime Minister, whose functions include the implementation of the Law and Mid-term Implementation Program, in addition to 49 Gender subcommittees that oversee the implementation of the Law in ministries, agencies, and local governing organizations.

17. The delegation of Mongolia discussed the 20 per cent quota requirement for women candidacy in the Parliament Election Law, and currently there are 11 women parliamentarians. There is an ongoing campaign to legislate a 30 percent quota for women candidacy in Parliament and local elections. Also, 38 percent of 1,300 business enterprises that are members of the Mongolian National Chamber of Commerce and Industry are managed by women CEOs.

18. In response to an advanced question concerning domestic violence, the delegation explained numerous measures that had been taken to combat domestic violence such as a draft law on Combating Domestic Violence that is currently under review by the State Great Khural. Moreover, in an effort to help victims of domestic violence, various measures were taken, including a shelter for victims of domestic violence established in Ulaanbaatar city in 2014, in addition to shelter facilities established in 7 provinces during 2013 to 2014, three One-stop Service Centers that provide medical, psychological, and legal services and counseling in Ulaanbaatar City and one in Zavkhan province, in addition to the operation of 107 and 108 hotline for emergency assistance to domestic violence victims. A police unit was also established to prevent and investigate child abuse and domestic violence, in addition to releasing statistics on domestic violence to the public.

19. The delegation of Mongolia highlighted the revised Law on Health and that on Prevention of Human Immunodeficiency Virus and Acquired Immunodeficiency syndrome were adopted in 2011 and 2012 respectively. These laws ban any restriction of human rights and freedoms due to HIV infection or AIDS and prohibit all forms of discrimination against such persons.

20. The delegation noted that child labour and corporal punishment still remained issues in Mongolia. The National Programme on the elimination of the worst forms of child labour was enacted in 2011, and in the new draft Labour Code there are provisions to prohibit labour for those under the age of 15.

21. The delegation of Mongolia explained that there are no official records of complaints received by the police regarding discrimination of LGBT people and on alleged mistreatment and dismissal of their complaints by law enforcement and supervisory bodies. Nonetheless, greater attention is still necessary to ensure the effective implementation of recommendations made by relevant treaty bodies and the National Human Rights Commission on the rights of LGBT people in areas of education, employment, health services, and other issues necessary in upholding their human rights.

22. In order to improve safety and health standards in the mining industry, the delegation reported that the Government had drafted and submitted to Parliament amendments to the Law on Labour Safety and Health. Moreover, a Sub-Committee was established to address safety and health issues in the geology, mining and petroleum sectors, in addition to developing comprehensive regulations on the safety in open-pit, underground mining, concentrator and explosive activities.

23. The delegation of Mongolia acknowledged that there had been cases of illegal and unsafe use of mercury in mining, but various measures such as the inspection for illegal use of chemicals had been carried out nationwide. In 2014, a national standard on “Mercury poisoning diagnosis and treatment” has been introduced. However, Mongolia explained that there was still a need to bring medical services closer to the sites of small and artisanal mining.

24. The delegation highlighted the importance of achieving a balance between the development of the agriculture and mining sectors. Due to the high priority of the issue of compensation by the Government, an inter-sectoral working group has been established to develop a proposal on improving a system of compensation and protecting the right of herders who are at risk of losing their pasture land or winter quarters due to exploration and mining activities. However, the Government is limited with regards to intervening directly, such as in the assessment of the monetary value of the privately owned winter quarters.

25. An issue of increasing concern, in conjunction with the development of the mining industry, is water supply. The delegation noted numerous measures taken regarding the efficient use of water resources, protection and conservation of the supply of drinking water for local communities, water safety and security. In addition, a specific law was enacted prohibiting mining activities within certain boundaries, as well as 650 water springs were taken under protection as per the National Programme on Water in 2010.

26. A critical issue for the city of Ulaanbaatar is air pollution, as forty per cent of the population resides there. The Clean Air Fund made an investment of 88,82 billion tugrugs (45 million USD) to reduce air pollution.

27. The Constitution, as well as the Land Law, prohibits the forced removal of citizens from their privately owned land and then expropriating the land. The ger-district redevelopment project has been implemented in 24 locations since 2013, and included the participation and engagement of all relevant stakeholders during redevelopment and land acquisition. Moreover, project companies could only acquire land following a tripartite contract between the landowner, project companies, and the Mayor of the City.

28. The Constitution establishes that international treaties ratified or acceded to by Mongolia will have a force equal to domestic laws. Out of 425 laws currently in effect, 159 laws contain general provisions placing legal prevalence to international treaties above domestic law when there is a disparity amongst the two. In order to address the issue of compatibility between national legislation and international treaties, a draft law on International Treaties is currently being developed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review

29. Argentina praised the accession to the Second Optional Protocol of the ICCPR with a view to abolishing the death penalty, the ratification of ICPPED and the OP-CAT. It also encouraged Mongolia to incorporate Article 14 of the ICERD in the new draft Penal Code, as considered currently by the authorities.

30. Australia commended the seriousness of the responses to the first UPR cycle including by the steps towards ratifying international treaties and launching significant legal and judicial reforms. It welcomed the accession to the Second Optional Protocol of the ICCPR and the implementation of a moratorium on death penalty. It also welcomed the adoption of the Law on National Human Rights Commission. It noted some gaps and challenges in implementing the Law to Combat Domestic Violence.

31. Austria highlighted the efforts in supporting freedom of expression, referring to the ongoing Freedom Online Coalition Conference. It raised concern with the effects of the Unified System of Website Comments and defamation court cases brought against bloggers and journalists, the overall detention conditions, the prevention and investigation of allegations of torture and ill-treatment in custody.

32. Belarus praised the implementation of the recommendations of the first UPR cycle. It highlighted the broad scale of legislative measures adopted between the two UPR cycles in particular the adoption of the Law on Combating Trafficking on Human Beings and the Law on Combating Domestic Violence.

33. Bhutan was pleased to note the enactment of the law on gender equality, which aims at expanding women's opportunities in public works and provides a legal framework for women's empowerment. It welcomed the government's increasing efforts in combating violence against children, including the disabled.

34. Brazil commended the ratification of the Second Optional Protocol to ICCPR and the implementation of the National Programme on the elimination of intolerable forms of child labour, as it had recommended during the first UPR cycle. Brazil acknowledged the accession to ICPED and OP-CAT. It welcomed the enactment of Laws on Gender Equality and on Fighting Domestic Violence. It noted that discrimination and violence against LGBT persons were still a challenge.

35. Canada noted that although Mongolia had accepted its recommendations of the first UPR cycle on death penalty and discrimination on basis of sexual orientation and gender identity, no action had been taken on either issue.

36. Chile praised the progress made on accession to international instruments and the strengthening of human rights institutions. It noted that this was reflected in the national report as a priority especially in terms of promoting education on human rights.

37. China commended Mongolia's judicial reforms in combating domestic violence and trafficking, protecting women and children's rights as well as promoting the rule of law to protect the environment referring to water pollution and desertification. It called on the international community to provide support to Mongolia in promoting human rights.

38. Costa Rica recognized the ratification of three core international human rights instruments. It encouraged harmonizing the national legislation and taking the necessary measures to abolish the death penalty. It also noted the reform in the judiciary although some challenges remained. It raised concern that local and national media suffered violations in their right to freedom of expression.

39. The Czech Republic appreciated the delegation's response to some of its advance questions.

40. The Democratic People's Republic of Korea noted the considerable progress made in the field of human rights, in particular in the implementation of the accepted recommendations during its first UPR. It commended the approval of the Law on Gender Equality and its continued efforts to protect the rights of children, women and persons with disabilities.

41. Denmark commended Mongolia for the ratification of OP-CAT in February 2015 as it demonstrated the Government's determination to advance on preventing torture. It stressed that the Convention against Torture Initiative, which is an intergovernmental cooperation process, was ready to explore avenues to assist the Government of Mongolia in advancing on issues relating to torture.
42. Estonia stressed that the implementation of the newly adopted laws and the full alignment of the national legislation with the international obligations was of key importance. It noted positively the draft Law on Crime, which decriminalizes defamation requesting its speedy implementation. Estonia invited the authorities to effectively address the issues of violence against children, child labour and rights of disabled children for inclusive education.
43. France welcomed Mongolia's ratification of the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance (CPPED), the Second Optional Protocol to ICCPR, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty and the Optional Protocol to CAT.
44. Germany welcomed progress in removing death penalty-related provisions from the draft Criminal Code. It remained concerned about impunity in cases of torture and reports of child work in mines, although listed as hazardous work for children. Germany commended Mongolia for its stance in favour of the protection of human rights on the internet.
45. Honduras welcomed the prohibition of corporal punishment in education legislation, and encouraged Mongolia to undertake efforts to adopt policies to ensure the abolition of this practice at home and at school. It shared the concern of the Human Rights Committee on violence against women.
46. Hungary acknowledged that since the first UPR cycle, Mongolia had undertaken concrete measures to implement the recommendations, and that progress had been made particularly by acceding to international treaties and enhancing national legislation. Hungary attached great importance to the establishment of an effective national preventive mechanism in line with OP-CAT.
47. India appreciated various legislative and policy measures undertaken on judicial reforms; to combat trafficking; and towards achieving gender parity. India asked Mongolia to share details on the implementation of the National Food Security Programme and on their experience regarding the functioning of the help-line to assist children in distress.
48. Indonesia welcomed that the national report was the result of an inclusive dialogue involving a wide range of ministries, agencies and non-governmental organizations. It expressed the view that further engagement and dialogues among relevant stakeholders will provide an opportunity to increase common understanding of national objectives and programmes for further enhancement of national initiatives.
49. Iraq appreciated measures undertaken in the area of human rights, including the adoption of legislation aimed at ensuring gender equality and the law against trafficking, as well as for judicial reforms. It also commended Mongolia for efforts to address domestic violence, measures to fight corruption and laws to better protect children. Iraq also welcomed the National Action Plan on disabilities.
50. Ireland welcomed the submission of a voluntary mid-term report, the recent ratification of international human rights instruments and the moratorium on executions imposed in 2010. It encouraged Mongolia to abolish the death penalty in law and in practice. Ireland expressed concern about the absence of comprehensive legislation on discrimination, and about social attitudes towards a number of vulnerable groups. Ireland was concerned by some restrictions on freedom of expression and opinion.

51. Italy welcomed the moratorium of capital executions and ratification of the Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR and the OP-CAT. It appreciated the measures undertaken to promote women's rights.

52. Japan commended Mongolia for ratifying various international human rights instruments, including the CPPED, as well as for establishing various human rights-related legislations such as the new Criminal Code. Japan expected a steady implementation of these legislations and the establishment of the rule of law.

53. Kuwait commended Mongolia for all efforts in drafting the report, which testifies the significant progress made since the last review. It commended in particular efforts to broaden human rights protection notably the ratification of the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearances and the Optional Protocol to CAT.

54. The Lao People's Democratic Republic was pleased to note that since the last UPR, Mongolia had taken steps to implement a large number of accepted recommendations. It appreciated the ratification of CPPED and OPCAT, promoting the rights of children and persons with disabilities, enhancing gender equality, ensuring equal access to secondary, high education and vocational training between men and women and preventing and fighting domestic violence and human trafficking.

55. Latvia commend efforts to combating domestic violence and for the open national education programme, which is an important step in allowing people to have access and continue their education no matter their location in the country.

56. Lithuania welcomed progress, namely the ratification of CPPED and OP-CAT, the moratorium on capital punishment since 2010, judicial reform and in the field of women empowerment. It remained however concerned about the low number of cases of domestic violence dealt with by the judicial system.

57. Malaysia was pleased about efforts and progress made on the training for law enforcement officials, preventing incidence of trafficking and combating domestic violence, which were part of the accepted recommendations by Mongolia during its first UPR. Malaysia acknowledged Mongolia's commitment to preventing and combating domestic violence, although cases had been on the rise from 2010 to 2014.

58. Mexico took note with satisfaction of progress achieved since the first review, highlighting the accession to and ratification of different international human rights treaties. It recognized the actions aimed at strengthening the national legislation in the area of trafficking in persons and independence of the judiciary.

59. Montenegro welcomed efforts to strengthen the institutional and strategic framework for human rights and the ratification of several international human rights treaties. It commended the fact that the President, within the framework of the Criminal Code, set a moratorium on capital punishment in 2010. Making reference to information from CAT on 44 persons remaining on death row, Montenegro wished to know if there was any action undertaken in order to commute the capital punishment into life sentence.

60. Morocco noted with appreciation the initiatives undertaken in the fight against trafficking in persons, and gender equality in all sectors of society, in particular the setting of quotas for women representation in State Institutions. Morocco welcomed the accession to the International Convention for the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearances and the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture. Morocco asked for information on initiatives taken for the establishment of national mechanism for the prevention of torture as foreseen by OP-CAT.

61. Namibia was pleased to note the enactment of the Law on Gender Equality 2011 and the subsequent adoption of a Mid-Term Strategy and Action plan in 2013. Namibia was also pleased to note the moratorium on the death penalty and the submission of the new Criminal Code to the Parliament in July 2014, which removed all provisions relating to the death penalty.

62. Nepal noted with appreciation the enactment of various laws, such as the Law on Gender Equality of 2011, the Law on Combatting Human Trafficking of 2012, the Law on Witness and Victim Protection of 2013, and the Law on Providing Legal Assistance to Indigent Defendants of 2013. Nepal also appreciated measures taken by the Government to combat maternal mortality and child labour, the accession of Mongolia to the Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR in 2012 and the de facto moratorium on capital punishment.

63. The Netherlands noted with appreciation Mongolia's increased international activity to promote democratic values, and believed that the organization of the Freedom Online Conference would have a positive effect on rights and freedoms online in Mongolia and the region.

64. The delegation of Mongolia noted the steps taken to abolish the death penalty, specifically the draft Criminal Code currently under review by the Parliament. The delegation further elaborated that all persons who were sentenced to death had been granted a pardon by the President, and would therefore serve a thirty-year prison term after which they will be released.

65. The delegation reiterated that torture was a subject of serious concern in Mongolia and acceding to the OP-CAT in 2011 was one of many efforts by the Government to abolish all torture cases in the country. There were a total of 14 cases of torture recorded, and as of 2014 two cases had been addressed. Furthermore, the delegation reiterated Mongolia's commitment to incorporating the subject of torture in the educational programme curricular. This provision of torture had already been included for law enforcement officers; however, the curricular for prosecutors should also include the subject of torture.

66. According to the Criminal Code of Mongolia, hate crimes are prohibited based on a religious, sexual, or ethnic basis, and therefore, should such cases take place, the perpetrator would be subject to criminal liability. Despite the lack of records concerning discrimination against LGBT people, the delegation of Mongolia expressed the readiness of law enforcement institutions to provide for the protection and promotion of LGBT people's rights.

67. Mongolia firmly believed that their efforts needed to be enhanced in order to promote the rights of the child within the family. Included within the new family law, there are very strong provisions and clauses that restrict and prohibit corporal punishment of children within the family.

68. Following the enactment of the Human Trafficking Law in 2012, Mongolia has reached a new stage in their efforts to combat human trafficking.

69. The delegation of Mongolia explained that the Criminal Code did not allow for detention of a suspect without a special resolution to arrest or detain a suspect issued by a judge or prosecutor. Despite the criticism from the general public concerning cases of unjustified or unlawful arrest or detention of suspects, there are no records of such cases.

70. In Mongolia, domestic violence remains a primary focus especially in the National Committee on Gender Equality, where numerous activities are conducted in order to create public awareness of the issue, especially among the youth. With the enactment of the revised Domestic Violence Law, Mongolia will be better able to address and tackle domestic violence issues completely, in addition to being equipped with a new method and instrument to deal with the problem. However, regarding liabilities and sanctions of perpetrators of domestic violence, there is a need for more efficient coordination among the domestic laws, especially concerning the mandates of law enforcement agencies.

71. Food security remains a critical issue in Mongolia. Numerous policy documents regarding food and health security in the country have been approved by the Government, including the Food Security National Program. In addition, 21 provinces, including 8 border crossing points, have established equipped laboratories to ensure food inspection in order to ensure food security according to international standards.

72. Niger congratulated Mongolia for the adoption of several laws within the reform of justice in 2013 and welcomed the ratification of several international instruments as well as efforts to ensure a better coordination with treaty bodies. As a result, the judiciary would be reinforced in terms of human and material resources, transparency and independence.

73. Norway acknowledged efforts to further enhance the protection of human rights, in particular the adoption and recent ratification of UN human rights conventions, and national programmes to protect the rights of women, children and persons with disabilities. It also appreciated efforts to establish a participatory and inclusive process for consultation with civil society for its UPR.

74. Pakistan acknowledged the Government commitment to the adoption of Laws on Gender Equality, Combating Human Trafficking Witness and Victim Protection as well as Security of Food Products, in the establishment of legal assistance center, administrative measures to protect rights of women and to enhance their participation at the decision making level. Pakistan also praised the adoption of National Programme on elimination of intolerable forms of child labour and Children's development.

75. Paraguay welcomed the openness and the work done with the Special Rapporteur on extreme poverty and other mandate holders. Paraguay welcomed the progress in the fight against poverty, the ratification of the Optional Protocol of the Convention against Torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment and the entry into force in 2012 of the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aimed at abolishing the death penalty. Paraguay shared its concern regarding domestic violence and encouraged Mongolia to continue making efforts principally for the care of domestic violence victims.

76. The Philippines encouraged the positive actions taken to address gender equality and women participation in public service. Philippines noted the enactment of the Law on Gender and Equality and also appreciated efforts to address domestic violence. However, it was concerned about the number of reported domestic violence cases that remains high. It welcomed the enactment of the Law on Combatting Human Trafficking.

77. Poland welcomed the improvements of legal environment, the introduction of the Law on Gender Equality, the Law on Combatting Human Trafficking and the Law on Providing Legal Assistance to Indigent Defendants and accession to international treaties. Poland remained concerned about the exploitation of children and their work in hazardous labour conditions.

78. Portugal welcomed the ratification of the Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights. Portugal noted that although the Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR had been ratified, Mongolia's internal legislation still had not been amended accordingly.

79. The Republic of Korea noted the ratification of and accession to major international human rights instruments and the enactment of new domestic laws and regulations, including the Law on Gender Equality and the National Action Plan of Action 2012-16 on Eliminating Child Labour. It hoped that those legislative and institutional measures could be fully implemented so as to improve the human rights situation in all areas.

80. The Republic of Moldova commented on the legal and structural changes, implemented since the first review to strengthen protection of human rights, such as the accession to the Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR aiming at the abolition of the death penalty, and the ratification of the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment. Moldova also welcomed the enactment of the Law on Combating Human Trafficking and the adoption of the National Programme on Fighting Domestic Violence.

81. Romania praised Mongolia for the ratification of the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and for the Presidential elections in 2013. Romania took note of the commitment of the Mongolian authorities, as expressed in the national report, to upholding the highest human rights standards.

82. The Russian Federation took note of the steps taken by the Government to protect the rights and freedoms of citizens, and welcomed the reform of the judicial system. It also welcomed the creation of new institutions for the promotion of human rights and accession to international treaties.

83. Rwanda commended Mongolia for the ratification of the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the International Convention for the Protection of all Persons from Enforced Disappearances and the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture. Rwanda further appreciated that women's participation in political life had increased with the number of elected women Parliament Members rising from 3 to 11 in 2012.

84. Serbia acknowledged the efforts taken to promote and protect human rights since the first UPR cycle. It commended Mongolia for the adoption of the 2004 Law to Combat Domestic Violence.

85. Sierra Leone commended Mongolia for introducing a moratorium on the death penalty and the ratification of the OP2-ICCPR, ICPPED and OP-CAT. It noted measures taken with a view to providing equal access to education as well as adopting the Gender Equality Act. It encouraged Mongolia to adopt the definition of torture and child labour norms in compliance with international standards.

86. Singapore recognized the steps and progress made since the last review on the improvement of women's rights, reducing maternal morbidity and increasing transparency and accountability in public services.

87. Slovakia welcomed the steps taken to strengthen human rights protection at the national level in particular by acceding to international treaties. Recognizing efforts aimed to improve the right to access to the information, Slovakia urged the authorities to continue implementing the legislation on media and access to information.

88. Slovenia noted that Mongolia implemented the majority of recommendations from the first UPR cycle, and commended Mongolia for the progress achieved in protecting the rights of persons with disabilities and promoting the right to education. While noting the adoption of Law on Gender Equality, it expressed concern that gender-based and domestic violence remain to be a serious problem.

89. Spain congratulated Mongolia on the ratification of the OP2-ICCPR and the OP-CAT as well as establishing a moratorium on the death penalty, and instituting a legal framework for protecting women from violence.

90. Sweden referred to the recommendations made by the UN treaty bodies, in particular CRC with regard to prohibition of all forms of corporal punishment. It also expressed concern about the human rights situation in ger districts.
91. Switzerland welcomed the ratification of international treaties namely the Minamata Convention on Mercury and the OP-CAT. It also noted the efforts undertaken to combat domestic violence. It however regretted the application of defamation law.
92. Thailand commended Mongolia for legislations and initiatives aimed to promote the rights of vulnerable groups. It noted remaining challenges in such areas as discrimination and domestic violence urging Mongolia to pursue effective implementation of the existing laws.
93. Timor-Leste was pleased to note the progress achieved by Mongolia, in particular the adoption of legislation to combat human trafficking.
94. Turkey congratulated Mongolia for the achievements made in the area of human rights referring to the abolition of the death penalty and the impressive track record on free and fair elections. It also noted with satisfaction progress in acceding to international treaties, and efforts to bring legislation in line with international instruments.
95. Turkmenistan welcomed the efforts taken by Mongolia with a view to strengthening legislative and institutional mechanisms for the protection of human rights.
96. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland recognized the progress made since the last UPR, including the establishment of Human Rights Division. It was pleased to note that Mongolia had maintained a moratorium on the death penalty. While welcoming legislative actions taken to criminalize discrimination of minority groups, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland encouraged Mongolia to swiftly introduce an anti-discrimination legislation to protect minorities.
97. The United States of America was encouraged to witness Mongolia's leadership in such coalitions as the Freedom Online Coalition and the Community of Democracies. It also praised Mongolia for efforts, inter alia, to increase women's representation in Parliament and equal opportunities provided to persons with disabilities.
98. Uruguay welcomed the ratification of the OP-CAT, ICPED and the OP2-ICCPR. It also noted that Gender Law was an important mechanism that allows a prohibition of direct and indirect discrimination.
99. Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of) emphasized the progress achieved since the first UPR cycle namely acceding to the OP2-ICCPR, the adoption of the Gender Equality Law and the Law against Trafficking along with national programmes on anti-human trafficking, as well as efforts aimed at curbing poverty.
100. Algeria noted progress in protecting and promoting human rights and efforts to prevent and combat domestic violence in the framework of the national programme. It also praised Mongolia for reforms in the justice system.
101. The delegation of Mongolia discussed a policy of providing equal access to education for children with disabilities that is stipulated in 35 laws and 20 national programmes such as the Government Action Plan 2012 - 2016 and the Education Master Plan. Moreover, the Government attaches high priority to the training of teaching staff, in addition to continuous efforts to increase the salary level for those who teach children with disabilities. There is also a plan to establish a national education centre for children with disabilities with a budget of fifty million US dollars in order to improve the quality of health and education.

102. As regards the subject of torture, the delegation of Mongolia stated that the National Police Agency was committed to improving professional qualification, skills, and education of its staff on the issue of torture by incorporating in the annual training curricular a mandatory human rights subject. The course focuses on ensuring public safety and security, while also ensuring that human rights are upheld. This type of training is conducted in conjunction with organizations such as the National Human Rights Commission and Amnesty International, in order to establish a specialized training programme that will be used to train law enforcement officials in local constituents on the application of human rights principles in investigation and inspection practices. Furthermore, additional measures are conducted in order to ensure accessibility by the general public, and the monitoring of complaint processes such as cooperation with citizen's representative institutions, and a smart police website in the Capital City Police Department.

103. Regarding the status of LGBT rights in Mongolia, the delegation stated that the Government had been striving to ensure the rights of LGBT people ever since the first UPR session. In addition, the delegation highlighted their appreciation for all recommendations concerning the criminal code provision on the elimination of all forms of discrimination of sexual minorities and LGBT people.

104. Referring to the Law on Gender Equality, the delegation discussed a new provision in the Labour code designed to prevent sexual harassment at work in addition to specific liabilities for those who commit this crime. Moreover, the delegation acknowledged the need for new amendments that provide for equality between the roles of family members in the household.

105. On the right to freedom of expression, the delegation highlighted that out of three million people in Mongolia, two million are Internet users and 1.8 million people are smartphone users. Furthermore, citizens of Mongolia have access to all social media and enjoy the right to express their opinions through social media to the fullest extent.

106. The National Police Agency places high priority on the safety and security of foreign citizens who are residing temporally or regularly in the country. Moreover, should a foreign citizen face any problems, they have the right to inform the police department within 24 hours in order to request an investigation, request legal counsel, and on information for the protection of their rights. In addition, according to the Criminal Procedure Code, foreign citizens residing in Mongolia have the right to speak their native language during the trial process.

II. Conclusions and/or recommendations

107. The following recommendations will be examined by Mongolia which will provide responses in due time, but no later than the 30th session of the Human Rights Council in September 2015.

- 107.1. Lift the declaration of recognizing Article 14 of the ICERD (Estonia);
- 107.2. Take all necessary actions to comply with its obligations as set out in OP2-ICCPR (Namibia);
- 107.3. Amend its legislation in accordance with OP2-ICCPR, in the briefest delay, with the aim of abolishing the death penalty (Portugal);
- 107.4. Ratify the Convention against Torture Articles 21 and 22 (Algeria);

 Conclusions and recommendations will not be edited

- 107.5. Recognize the competence of the Committee against Torture and make the declaration under articles 21 and 22 of the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (Poland);
- 107.6. Make the declaration regarding Article 22 of the Convention against Torture to recognize the competence of the Committee against Torture to receive individual communications (Denmark);
- 107.7. Establish a robust and well-resourced national preventive mechanism in accordance with the OP-CAT (Czech Republic);
- 107.8. Ratify the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on a Communications Procedure (Montenegro; Portugal; Thailand);
- 107.9. Ratify the International Convention for the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of their Families (Paraguay);
- 107.10. Accede to the Convention for the Protection of the Rights of Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families (Uruguay);
- 107.11. Step up the process of ratifying the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of all Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families (Algeria);
- 107.12. Consider ratifying ICRMW and ILO Convention 189 (Philippines);
- 107.13. Consider its accession to the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of their Families, in order to ensure a comprehensive approach to migrant workers' rights (Indonesia);
- 107.14. Ratify the ICRMW and the Conventions on Refugees and Stateless persons (Sierra Leone);
- 107.15. Positively consider acceding to the Convention on the Status of Stateless Persons and the Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness (Norway);
- 107.16. Accelerate the process to accede to the 1951 Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees and its 1967 Protocol, and enact legislation to protect asylum-seekers and refugees regardless of country of origin (Canada);
- 107.17. Fully align its national legislation with the Rome Statute of the ICC and ratify the Agreement on Privileges and Immunities of the Court (Estonia);
- 107.18. Transpose the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court into national law (Portugal);
- 107.19. Adopt a comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation to avoid all forms of discrimination on the basis of ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation or gender identity, language, political belief, mental or physical disability (Chile);
- 107.20. Adopt comprehensive legislation to counter discrimination, and take steps to ensure that equality enshrined in such legislation or in existing law is achieved in practice (Ireland);
- 107.21. Introduce comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation that would protect the rights of all members of minority groups including LGBT persons (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland);

- 107.22. Accelerate the enactment process of the new Criminal Code (Turkey);
- 107.23. Hasten its positive work on revising the Criminal Code and other necessary legal framework, followed by its effective implementation, to ensure a legal framework and human rights culture that promotes equality and security for all (Norway);
- 107.24. Continue to protect and promote the rights of vulnerable groups of population, including children, the disabled, the elderly and women (Russian Federation);
- 107.25. Revise the law governing the National Human Rights Commission and develop its capacity to bring it in line with the Paris Principles (Sierra Leone);
- 107.26. Continue its efforts in the field of education and human rights training particularly for law enforcement officers (Morocco);
- 107.27. Incorporate training on human rights training and the application of international treaties in the permanent and mandatory training programme for judges and magistrates (Mexico);
- 107.28. Strengthen the mandate of the Commission of Human Rights in view of its full independence and conformity with the Paris Principles (Chile);
- 107.29. Provide greater support to the National Human Rights Commission to ensure its independence (Australia);
- 107.30. Give continuity to strengthening of national human rights institutions and mechanisms (Nepal);
- 107.31. Take the necessary steps to enhance the capacity of the National Human Rights Commission of Mongolia to enable it to carry out its mandate freely and independently for it to comply with the Paris Principles (Namibia);
- 107.32. Improve the work of the National Human Rights Commission with a view to conform it to the Paris Principles, and to reinforce its legal framework to better fight against discrimination. (Niger);
- 107.33. Continue its efforts for further strengthening of human rights institutions for the effective realization of all human rights in the country (Pakistan);
- 107.34. Apply the commitments undertaken under the national legislation for the protection of the most vulnerable citizens, notably children, senior citizens and persons with disabilities (Romania);
- 107.35. Continue efforts for provision of human rights education and training at all levels including for government functionaries (Pakistan);
- 107.36. Examine the possibility for creating a follow up system for international recommendations, including accepted UPR recommendations (Paraguay);
- 107.37. Work on strengthening international cooperation in the field of human rights (Turkmenistan);
- 107.38. Submit its first report to the UN Committee against Torture, which is overdue since 2003, in order to initiate the valuable dialogue with the Committee (Denmark);

- 107.39. Consider further cooperation with the international human rights monitoring mechanisms including treaty bodies and Special procedures of the Human Rights Council (Turkmenistan);
- 107.40. Participate actively in the international programmes of technical assistance and capacity building in the field of human rights (Turkmenistan);
- 107.41. Introduce new legislation to fight discrimination on any grounds (Uruguay);
- 107.42. Adopt a comprehensive law against discrimination on all grounds, including legal protection of victims (Czech Republic);
- 107.43. Further pursue measures for the protection of the rights of women and children (Japan);
- 107.44. Step up its efforts in enhancing the impact of the measures taken to address traditional discriminatory practices and persisting stereotypes about the roles and responsibilities of women and men (Slovenia);
- 107.45. Deepen the actions that ensure the effective implementation and legislation that guarantee the equality and protection of women (Argentina);
- 107.46. Continue its efforts in improving protection of women's rights (Democratic People's Republic of Korea);
- 107.47. Continue to promote gender equality and involvement of women in public services (Lao People's Democratic Republic);
- 107.48. Continue to implement policies that would further encourage women's full and active participation in its society and economy (Singapore);
- 107.49. Consider adopting a national action plan on Security Council Resolution 1325 on Women, Peace and Security (Portugal);
- 107.50. Fight against the hate speeches that provoke racial and ethnical discrimination and to fight against the relevant violence (China);
- 107.51. Take effective measures to combat direct and indirect discrimination against persons living in the ger districts (Sweden);
- 107.52. Step up efforts to ensure the protection of foreign nationals from any forms of attacks and to hold offenders accountable (Republic of Korea);
- 107.53. Combat all forms of discrimination, including based on sexual orientation or sexual identity (France);
- 107.54. Develop pertinent legislation to guarantee the effective protection of the human rights of LGBTI persons, as well as undertake impartial investigations on the allegations of attacks against them in accordance with the Special Rapporteur on extreme poverty and human rights (Honduras);
- 107.55. Prohibit all forms of discrimination, including discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity (Slovenia);
- 107.56. Ensure that all forms of discrimination are prohibited, including on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity and health status (Timor-Leste);
- 107.57. Promote equality in the enjoyment of human rights of LGBTI persons incorporating it into national legislation (Uruguay);

- 107.58. Amend its criminal legislation to include crimes of hatred and of discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity (Spain);
- 107.59. Launch a public awareness-raising campaign to fight and prevent discrimination and violence against LGBT persons and to promote tolerance (Brazil);
- 107.60. Step up its efforts to counter discrimination and violence on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity, and to structurally collect data and provide statistics and information in this regard. (Netherlands);
- 107.61. Adopt quick and effective measures, as well as necessary legislation, in order to explicitly prohibit, prevent, punish and abolish discrimination on any grounds, including on the basis of HIV/AIDS status, as previously recommended (Mexico);¹
- 107.62. Confirm by law the abolition of the death penalty in line with the Second Optional Protocol to ICCPR aiming at the abolition of the death penalty, which Mongolia has ratified (France);
- 107.63. Adopt legislation to explicitly abolish the death penalty (Australia);
- 107.64. Amend the Criminal Code with a view to fully abolish the death penalty (Italy);
- 107.65. Introduce a complete abolition of the death penalty through legal reform (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland);
- 107.66. Review its criminal law legislation to abolish the death penalty in order to reflect its international commitment done by the ratification of the Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR (Sweden);
- 107.67. Adopt legislation, including a new Criminal Code with the aim of abolishing the death penalty in law (Slovakia);
- 107.68. Abolish de jure the death penalty for all crimes (Montenegro);
- 107.69. Abolish the death penalty and provide the families of the executed persons with relevant declassified information (Lithuania);
- 107.70. Declassify State secret information on the death penalty (Portugal);
- 107.71. Incorporate the international framework on the prevention of torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment in the training of law enforcement officials and other public officials, as well as in the permanent training programme of judges and lawyers (Mexico);
- 107.72. Improve prosecution of all allegations of torture as well as conditions in detention and prison facilities and strengthen legal safeguards available to victims of torture (Czech Republic);
- 107.73. Put in place awareness raising programmes targeting the police forces in order to prevent torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, as well as to create effective investigation mechanisms to combat impunity in this area (France);

¹ The recommendation as read during the interactive dialogue: “Mexico reiterates its recommendation in the area of non-discrimination from the first cycle UPR of Mongolia.”

- 107.74. Consider the amendment of its Criminal Code in order to include a definition of torture as a crime (Hungary);
- 107.75. Establish an independent mechanism for the investigation of allegations of torture and ill-treatment in line with the requirements of the recently ratified OPCAT (Austria);
- 107.76. Ensure that torture and ill-treatment by public officials would not be tolerated and that all alleged perpetrators of the acts of torture would be investigated (Timor-Leste);
- 107.77. Establish an independent investigation mechanism for allegations of torture and other cruel and inhuman or degrading treatment committed by police forces and to prevent such violations by public agents (Switzerland);
- 107.78. Ensure that all complaints and reports of torture and other ill-treatment are investigated thoroughly by an independent agency, and that those responsible are held to account. Such investigations should be conducted by personnel who are competent, impartial and independent of the alleged perpetrators and the agency they serve (Sweden);
- 107.79. Strengthen the measures aimed at preventing cases of torture and ill-treatment by public officials, and ensure that all allegations are promptly and thoroughly investigated in order to bring to justice those responsible (Italy);
- 107.80. Continue to take measures to eradicate the use of torture and other forms of ill-treatment, including through training and education of law enforcement authorities (Costa Rica);
- 107.81. Establish judicial and other mechanisms to investigate allegations of torture, police brutality, and arbitrary detention (Canada);
- 107.82. Take appropriate steps to improve the treatment of detainees (Japan);
- 107.83. Adopt legislation to prevent and end all forms of violence against children (Timor-Leste);
- 107.84. Continue active work in combating domestic violence (Belarus);
- 107.85. Step up its efforts to curb the occurrence of domestic violence (Philippines);
- 107.86. Continue to put forward more efforts to eliminate domestic and gender-based violence and discrimination against women and ensure greater representation of women in all sectors of society by fully implementing the Law on Gender Equality (Republic of Korea);
- 107.87. Strengthen efforts to prevent gender-based and domestic violence by criminalizing marital rape and sexual harassment providing victims with access to justice, assistance and protection, and by ensuring that cases are properly investigated and perpetrators duly prosecuted (Slovenia);
- 107.88. Adopt and actively pursue a focused national strategy on combating all forms of violence against women, which would promote awareness – raising activities related to the Law to Combat Domestic Violence (Turkey);
- 107.89. Continue to strengthen protections for domestic violence survivors, and extend an invitation to the Special Rapporteur on violence against women, its causes and consequences to visit Mongolia (United States of America);

- 107.90. Continue its efforts in the field of combating domestic violence (Latvia);
- 107.91. Reinforce mechanisms to detect and investigate cases of domestic violence and train law enforcement officials to deal with such cases (Republic of Moldova);
- 107.92. Effectively implement existing laws in the area of domestic violence and strengthen the prevention activities and protect victims including through the establishment of protection facilities in remote areas (Switzerland);
- 107.93. Pass the draft domestic violence legislation before Parliament to criminalise domestic violence, better protect victims and ensure perpetrators are prosecuted (Australia);
- 107.94. Strengthen mechanisms to prevent domestic violence, particularly, focusing on awareness-raising to heighten awareness of this issue (Spain);
- 107.95. Remove barriers in accessing legal remedies against domestic violence including by improving the collaboration between relevant institutions and revisiting evidentiary requirements, and to ensure that restraining orders are enforced (Austria);
- 107.96. Improve access of victims of domestic violence to effective protection and redress, strengthen the capacity for prosecution of perpetrators of domestic violence and criminalize marital rape (Czech Republic);
- 107.97. Ensure the effective implementation of the existing legislation aimed at fighting discrimination and violence against women and domestic violence (Italy);
- 107.98. Consider wider establishment of shelter houses for women and children seeking protection from domestic violence (Malaysia);
- 107.99. Continue to strengthen national legislation to combat domestic violence (Russian Federation);
- 107.100. Develop a well-defined legal framework to prevent and combat violence against women and build a social protection system for victims of domestic violence (Serbia);
- 107.101. Amend the criminal legislation to criminalize domestic violence and ensure that authorities pursue prosecution of domestic violence to hold offenders accountable and provide adequate funding of all services for victims of domestic violence (Slovakia);
- 107.102. Modify criminal legislation to ensure that domestic violence becomes a crime (Spain);
- 107.103. Adopt the revised Law against Domestic Violence, enhance awareness-raising campaigns about domestic violence, and expand services and protection for victims (Canada);
- 107.104. Consider criminalising domestic violence, sexual harassment and ensuring that perpetrators are duly prosecuted (Hungary);
- 107.105. Adopt legislative measures to make domestic violence a crime, understanding all forms of violence in the home, including threats, sexual harassment and sexual abuse, and ensure that perpetrators are brought to justice and that victims receive care, including in the rural areas (Paraguay);

- 107.106. Explicitly prohibit corporal punishment to children in accordance with the recommendations of CAT (Chile);
- 107.107. Explicitly prohibit all corporal punishment of children, including in the home (Sweden);
- 107.108. Take steps to effectively prevent child labour and protect children from exploitation, especially from work in hazardous labour conditions (Germany);
- 107.109. Strengthen the implementation of the National Plan of Action 2012-2016 on Eliminating the Intolerable Forms of Child Labour and to consider follow-up mechanisms (Italy);
- 107.110. Enhance the efforts to combat child labour and ensure that children do not work in hazardous labour conditions, including artisanal (informal) mines (Italy);
- 107.111. Continue its efforts in combating child labour, as well as including by bringing the employers to justice, and to introduce new non-violent forms of discipline for children at home and in schools (Lithuania);
- 107.112. Explore strategies to combat child labour (Norway);
- 107.113. Combat child labour, including by criminalizing employers who exploit child labour and bringing them to justice (Poland);
- 107.114. Continue efforts to ensure that children are protected from all forms of violence and exploitation, particularly from child labour in hazardous conditions (Republic of Korea);
- 107.115. Continue its efforts in the field of the protection of child rights (Morocco);
- 107.116. Improve the enforcement of the Law on Combating Trafficking in persons by strengthening the capacity of law enforcement to detect and prosecute perpetrators, and by expanding services for victims (Canada);
- 107.117. Implement the Law on Combating Human Trafficking of 2012 and strengthen the law enforcement and the judicial system, in order to ensure effective investigation and prosecution of perpetrators and to prevent trafficking (Brazil);
- 107.118. Criminalize all forms of human trafficking of children by enacting the strict anti-trafficking legislation (Sierra Leone);
- 107.119. Enhance measures in combatting trafficking in person, particularly women and children, through proper investigation and prosecution in all cases of human trafficking (Malaysia);
- 107.120. Allocate all necessary human and material resources to combat the trafficking of persons (Honduras);
- 107.121. Take budgetary, administrative and legislative measures to guarantee access to witnesses and victims of trafficking in persons to legal aid, protection and rehabilitation services (Mexico);
- 107.122. Continue to provide adequate human and other resources to its anti-human trafficking programmes (Philippines);
- 107.123. Provide training to stakeholders involved in the administration and delivery of justice, to prosecute trafficking in persons pursuant to the new regulating framework, article 113 of the Criminal Code, especially to ensure investigation of all allegations of trafficking in persons, including those against law enforcement officials and to implement mechanisms for compensation and rehabilitation of victims (Mexico);

107.124. Continue the reform of the judicial system in line with Mongolia's international commitments (Russian Federation);

107.125. Further improve access to the legal aid through the established centres in all provinces by providing them with necessary financing and qualified human resources (Lithuania);

107.126. Ensure independent and effective investigations in cases of torture and ill-treatment in order to combat impunity in such cases, and to ensure that victims of torture obtain adequate compensation and rehabilitation (Germany);

107.127. Ensure that all perpetrators are prosecuted and victims have access to immediate redress and protection (Lithuania);

107.128. Establish a comprehensive framework on juvenile justice which is in conformity with international standards (Sierra Leone);

107.129. Continue to take steps to prevent and fight corruption to bring about equitable and sustainable growth for its people (Singapore);

107.130. Investigate all cases of corruption in the judicial system (Lithuania);

107.131. Harmonise its national legislation regarding freedom of expression with the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, and ensure the independence of the Regulations Commission of Communications (Switzerland);

107.132. Ensure that laws and regulations related to freedom of expression fully comply with Mongolia's obligations under the ICCPR and consider decriminalizing defamation (United States of America);

107.133. Guarantee freedom of expression, including in the Internet (France);

107.134. Ensure full respect of human rights, including the right to privacy and the right to freedom of expression, in all aspects of internet regulation, and adherence of any restrictions of those rights to the principles of legality, necessity and proportionality (Germany);

107.135. Ensure that journalists, media workers as well as civil society activists are able to practice their activities freely without any fear for punishment in accordance with international standards (Estonia);

107.136. Decriminalize defamation and put in place safeguards ensuring that criticism of or reporting on the activities of state and regional authorities do not lead to persecution or harassment (Czech Republic);

107.137. Decriminalise defamation and place it under the civil code in accordance with international human rights standards (Ireland);

107.138. Ensure that criminal defamation law is not used to silence critics, and to protect journalists' sources and whistle-blowers (Austria);

107.139. Implement a national plan of action that would strengthen the participation of women in the decision-making level of politics (Serbia);

- 107.140. Strengthen its efforts to include women in decision-making processes and high level positions, and to ensure the inclusion of disabled persons in education and employment (Norway);
- 107.141. Intensify its efforts in increasing women's representation in decision-making positions (Rwanda);
- 107.142. Take measures to ensure participation of women in politics, including through affirmative action and quota requirements (Costa Rica);
- 107.143. Continue strengthening successful social programmes to improve the quality of life of their people particularly the most marginalized (Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of));
- 107.144. Undertake the necessary measures to ensure sustainable development in its urban centers, ensuring that there is basic public services for the most vulnerable people, particularly, migrants coming from rural areas (Spain);
- 107.145. Consider strengthening the delivery of primary health care with national and subnational health systems, to expand coverage and access; and to address the challenges related to the health system (Bhutan);
- 107.146. Continue efforts to promote the rights of women and children, and address the still high level of maternal mortality (Nepal);
- 107.147. Continue its efforts to reduce maternal morbidity (Democratic People's Republic of Korea);
- 107.148. Continue its efforts in taking practical steps to further reduce the rates of maternal morbidity, particularly in the rural areas (Singapore);
- 107.149. Continue making efforts to reduce disparities in infant mortality rates between rural and urban areas in the country (Honduras);
- 107.150. Continue improving the "One Mongolia" open national education programme (Latvia);
- 107.151. Continue its efforts in order to ensure the right to education for all children (Romania);
- 107.152. Redouble its efforts in finalizing the Draft Law on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities to guarantee the promotion and protection of rights of disabled persons, in particular to ensure their participation, to increase their employment, and to enhance their rights to education (Indonesia);
- 107.153. Continue its efforts in favour of persons with disabilities (Argentina);
- 107.154. Adopt specific legislation to address all kinds of discrimination, particularly taking into account the rights of persons with disabilities and older persons (Turkey);
- 107.155. Increase the input in education and give importance to the inclusive education for disabled children to ensure their healthy development (China);
- 107.156. Ensure equal access to education for children with disabilities, by improving public perception on their rights (Turkey);
- 107.157. Continue to strengthen educational system and ensuring equal access of disabled children to education (Lao People's Democratic Republic);
- 107.158. Consider giving special attention to the rights of women and girls with disabilities, including their reproductive rights, the right to be free from violence, to work, to receive education and to participate in decision-making (Thailand);

107.159. Provide adequate protection to asylum seekers as required by relevant international norms including the principle of non-refoulement and to consider ratifying the Convention on Refugees (Republic of Korea);

107.160. Work together with UNHCR ensuring that the asylum-seekers have access to their rights, particularly in compliance with the principle of non-refoulement (Uruguay);

107.161. Consider the ratification of the Minamata Convention and update article 4.1.23 of the Law on Minerals of Mongolia, which applies to small-scale mining, to secure mining rights to small-scale miners and formalize their operation as soon as possible (Hungary);

107.162. Develop a National Action Plan on business and human rights, for the implementation of the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, with special attention for the situation of nomadic herders and access to remedy (Netherlands);

107.163. Join the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights Initiative in order to promote respect for human rights in the provision of security for extractive industry activities (United States of America);

107.164. Elaborate and implement a national action plan on the use of mercury in the artisanal mining sector in order to protect the health of workers involved in the work of this sector as well as the environment (Switzerland);

108. All conclusions and/or recommendations contained in the present report reflect the position of the submitting State(s) and/or the State under review. They should not be construed as endorsed by the Working Group as a whole.

Annex

Composition of the delegation

The delegation of Mongolia was headed by Mr. Tsogoo UUGANGEREL, Vice Minister of Justice and composed of the following members:

- Mr. ERDENEBAT Ganbat, Deputy Prosecutor of General Prosecutor's Office of Mongolia;
 - Mr. ANKHBAYAR Nyamdorj, Head of the Human Rights Division of the Department of International Legal Affairs of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs;
 - Ms. NYAMSUVD Batmagnai, Officer of the Foreign Relations Division of the Ministry of Population Development and Social Welfare;
 - Mr. BADARCH Gungaa, Head of the Foreign Relations Division of the General Police Department;
 - Ms. BOLORMAA Mashlai, Secretary of the National Committee on Equality;
 - Ms. GANTUYA Dulaanjargal, Officer of the Treaty, Law and Foreign Relations Department of the Ministry of Justice;
 - Ms. KHALIUN Dalantai, Translator.
-