

General Assembly

Distr.: Limited
30 October 2014

Original: English

UNEDITED VERSION

Human Rights Council

Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review

Twentieth session

Geneva, 27 October – 7 November 2014

Draft report of the Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review*

Bolivia (Plurinational State of)

---

* The annex to the present report is circulated as received

Contents

	Paragraphs	Page
Introduction .....	1-4	3
I Summary of the proceedings of the review process .....	5-112	3
A. Presentation by the State under review .....	5-22	3
B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review .....	23-112	5
II. Conclusions and/or recommendations.....	113-117	13
Annex
Composition of the delegation .....		25

Introduction

1. The Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review (UPR), established in accordance with Human Rights Council resolution 5/1 of 18 June 2007, held its twentieth session from 27 October to 7 November 2014. The review of Bolivia (Plurinational State of) was held at the 4th meeting on 28 October 2014. The delegation of Bolivia (Plurinational State of) was headed by Mr. Héctor Enrique Arce Zaconeta, Procurador General del Estado. At its 10th meeting held on 31 October 2014, the Working Group adopted the report on Bolivia (Plurinational State of).
2. On 15 January 2014, the Human Rights Council selected the following group of rapporteurs (troika) to facilitate the review of Bolivia (Plurinational State of): Costa Rica, Benin and Pakistan.
3. In accordance with paragraph 15 of the annex to resolution 5/1 and paragraph 5 of the annex to resolution 16/21, the following documents were issued for the review of Bolivia (Plurinational State of):
  - (a) A national report submitted/written presentation made in accordance with paragraph 15 (a) (A/HRC/WG.6/20/BOL/1);
  - (b) A compilation prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (b) (A/HRC/WG.6/20/BOL/2);
  - (c) A summary prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (c) (A/HRC/WG.6/20/BOL/3).
4. A list of questions prepared in advance by Belgium, Czech Republic, Germany, Liechtenstein, The Netherlands, Mexico, Norway, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland was transmitted to Bolivia (Plurinational State of) through the troika. These questions are available on the extranet of the UPR.

I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

5. In his introductory remarks, the State Attorney General, Mr. Héctor Arce Zaconeta, referred to five main issues, ie. (a) the Political Constitution of Bolivia; (b) economic social and cultural rights; (c) political rights and democracy; (d) the construction of a new codification, as well as the judicial and social legislation and; (e) perspectives on human rights.
6. Since its first review in 2010, Bolivia has made progress in the implementation of commitments for the fulfilment of human rights, in line with the Constitution. The new Constitution is the result of a social and political struggle based on principles for the promotion, protection and enjoyment of human rights. The Constitution, drafted through a democratic process, established that international human rights treaties have precedence in the national legal order.
7. The adoption of the new Constitution marked an important change in the country, as a basis for restructuring the Plurinational State, based on the principle of the rule of law. In addition, the cultural diversity that characterizes the population has determined the basis for social justice. The Constitution recognized the nations and indigenous peoples, native and peasant their rights to exercise their own justice system. Legislation is important to achieve the Good Living of the peoples, but it cannot disregard their needs. During the period 2010-2014, Bolivia adopted a broad spectrum of laws for the effective realization of rights, among which, laws for the protection of the right to education, health, housing, the rights of peoples in vulnerability, older persons, persons with disabilities, as well as the rights of nations and indigenous peoples, native and peasant and afro-bolivians.

8. As a result of the implementation of the economic, social, community and productive model, Bolivia has reduced extreme poverty from 38 percent in 2005 to 18 percent in 2013. Bolivia has assumed the administration of strategic economic resources and redistributed earnings through conditional social bonus. A progressive and sustainable salary increase has also been implemented, consolidating the basis for a truly Social State.

9. In the area of health, the national budget has increased significantly. Important programmes, aiming at consolidating the comprehensive, inter-sectorial and inter-cultural approach to health based on the universality and quality of health services were highlighted.

10. The right to education has been recognized in the Constitution. Bolivia provides free education at all levels, including at higher level. It promotes the assistance to primary and secondary education for all children through the provision of an economic incentive. The use of technology in education is also being promoted. Community Distance Learning Centres were set up in rural areas and access to internet services and mobile communication has been possible. Free laptop computers were provided to all teachers and computers are being distributed to all secondary level students.

11. In the area of labour rights, important laws, programmes and policies have been adopted. The unemployment rate has been lowered from 8 percent in 2006 to 3.2 percent in 2012.

12. The delegation also provided information on legislation and policies regarding access to land and the promotion of agriculture production and prioritizing the organic production in harmony with the Mother Earth. The capacities of nations and indigenous peoples, native and peasant and afro-bolivian communities have been strengthened, emphasizing the inter-cultural knowledge and practices. A Universal Agrarian Insurance "Pachamana" has been created with a view to securing the agrarian production affected by climate change.

13. Information regarding strategic actions to ensure access to housing, drinking water and sanitation, and electricity was also provided. Bolivia noted that it had reached the Millennium Development Goal on the reduction of extreme poverty and hunger, as well as reached the third target of the seventh goal to halve the proportion of the population without sustainable access to safe drinking water.

14. The Constitution has also broadened the democratic participation of the population. Bolivians living abroad in about 30 countries can now exercise their right to vote. Free access to birth registration has also been extended.

15. Freedom of expression is also guaranteed and important legislation for the protection of journalists has been adopted during the last years. In 2010, a law to fight corruption was also adopted which has resulted in 82 convictions and the recovery of more than 100 millions of dollars for the State. Bolivia has also adopted legislation to combat racism and all forms of discrimination.

16. Information on important efforts to codify legislation was also provided. The Code of Constitutional Procedure, the Civil Procedure Code, the Children and Adolescent Code, among others, were adopted and others, such as the Family and Family Procedure Code and the Penal System Code are currently being drafted. The penal reform is an important pending task in Bolivia to guarantee effectively the right to life and security of the person.

17. Bolivia is working to address challenges to achieve the Good Living, to establish a truly Social and Democratic Rule of Law State. Bolivia is a nation that believes in itself and sees its future with faith and hope. Bolivia is today a Nation that respects and is respect in the international arena. In order to achieve its goals, Bolivia has adopted the Patriotic Agenda 2025, based on 13 pillars, establishing a dignified, sovereign and productive Bolivia. The main objective of the agenda is to implement the human rights enshrined in the Constitution.

18. The Minister of Justice provided information regarding the rights of women in Bolivia. In addition to 26 specific articles on women's rights included in the new Constitution, a gender perspective, an inclusive and non-sexist language have also been included. The progressive legal framework and the adoption of public policies, has allowed Bolivia to make progress. The recognition of gender equality, non-violence and the full enjoyment of human rights for women are concepts that now are to be incorporated in all state and social structures.

19. Femicide is now also criminalized. Bolivia has adopted legislation to guarantee women a life free of violence, with clear institutional responsibilities that allow for timely intervention. The political activities of women are now also protected through the Law against harassment and political violence toward women adopted and which prohibits all forms of discrimination against women in the society.

20. The Comprehensive Act on guaranteeing a life free of violence for women establishes judicial procedures to punish those responsible for femicide and established new offences of violence against women, among which physical violence, violence in the media, sexual violence, violence in the provision of health services, economic violence, violence in the education system, in the exercise of political rights and leadership, institutional. The law and regulations approved also allow for the gradual creation of protection shelters for women victims of violence, as well as their children and other dependants. The regulation also establishes responsibilities for the creation and management of a comprehensive information system for the prevention, attention, punishment and eradication of gender violence known as SIPPASE, in the Ministry of Justice.

21. Information was also provided on progress made with regard to the rights of children and adolescents. Children and Adolescent's activities within the family framework and social community, are tasks that play socialization and training role and are not a threat to children's rights. Activities are performed within the framework of their family in their communities and are culturally highly valued and accepted and have the aim of developing their skills for life and the strengthening of their communal life within the Good Living framework. In 2014, the Children and Adolescents Code was adopted

22. With regard to progress made on the rights of nations and indigenous peoples, native and peasant, incorporated in the Constitution, Bolivia highlighted the importance of adopting a draft bill on prior, free and informed consultations. Bolivia emphasised their willingness and interest in establishing consultation processes for communities to be able to introduce their own vision of development. Reference was also made to the importance of a law for the protection of nations and indigenous peoples and natives in situation of high vulnerability, adopted in 2013.

B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review

23. During the interactive dialogue, 76 delegations made statements. Recommendations made during the dialogue are to be found in section II of the present report.

24. Ecuador recognized efforts to comply with recommendations received in 2009 the compliance of the First Millennium Development Goal and stated it shows the importance the Bolivian State gives to redistribution of wealth.
25. Cuba recognized efforts to implement recommendations from the first review, in particular the development of indicators on the rights to education, work, health, adequate food, housing and the right of women to a life free from violence.
26. Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of) underscored that the Bolivia had recovered the control of the country's economy towards a just distribution of wealth and free education. It congratulated Bolivia on progress made in reaching the MDG on extreme poverty.
27. Finland expressed concern that the Bolivia criminalizes abortion and enquired on measures to implement the Acts related to the rights of women and the Strategic National Plan on Sexual and Reproductive Health 2009-2015.
28. France asked the delegation about the evolution of indigenous peoples' justice and its future within the reform being undertaken, as well as about additional measures envisaged to address violence against women.
29. Germany welcomed progress made since Bolivia's last review, especially in combatting poverty and introducing legislation to protect minority rights. It encouraged Bolivia to further these efforts.
30. Equatorial Guinea welcomed the establishment of a Human Rights Education Plan and the implementation of public policies in line with the 2025 Patriotic Agenda, stating these initiatives allow a broader integration of all communities in the territory.
31. Guatemala welcomed the ratification of international instruments, the adoption of laws and creation of mechanisms to strengthen human rights, as well as the reduction of extreme poverty.
32. Hungary stated that according to available data more than 80% of the prison population in Bolivia is awaiting sentence and is being held in pre-trial detention. It expressed concern on the seemingly frequent political interference into judicial proceedings. Reference was made to a case of a Hungarian national.
33. India commended action to implement UPR recommendations and commitment to establish an inter-institutional forum on human rights issues for the preparation of periodic reports.
34. Indonesia welcomed the launching of the Plan on Human Rights Education, the decision to launch a National Day against Racism and All Forms of Discrimination and the formulation of an action plan to eliminate racism and discriminatory practices.
35. Iran (Islamic Republic of) noted positively legislative measures undertaken, the adoption of the Plan on Human Rights, Education, the National Equal Opportunities Plan for women and the National Programme for Combating Gender-based Violence.
36. Ireland expressed concerns about high levels of impunity for human rights violations and urged Bolivia (Plurinational State of) to strengthen rule of law, ensuring that no person or institution is above the law and that impunity for human rights violations is not tolerated.
37. Israel expressed concern that Bolivia (Plurinational State of) still owes reports to treaty bodies, some overdue for more than four years.
38. Italy welcomed efforts to improve the functioning of the judicial system and encouraged Authorities to further engage on the reform of the justice sector and tackle issues concerning delay of justice and overuse of protective custody.

39. Kuwait valued Bolivia's (Plurinational State of) efforts towards the enhancement of legal and institutional framework with a view to protecting and promoting human rights and highlighted its cooperation with the mechanisms of the Human Rights Council.
40. Lebanon underscored steps such as the standing invitation extended to the Special Procedures of the Human Rights Council and the legal measures and mechanisms aimed at combating and punishing racism.
41. Malaysia noted positively achievements on poverty eradication, labour and employment policies, children's rights, education, and the right to safe drinking water and sanitation, coinciding with recommendations made by Malaysia during the first UPR Review.
42. Mauritania welcomed all legislative and political initiatives by Bolivia (Bolivarian Republic of) such as the adoption of the Plan of Action 2012-2015 aimed at combating racism and all forms of discrimination. It recommended the adoption of the report on Bolivia (Bolivarian Republic of).
43. Mexico recognized efforts on economic, social and cultural rights, and valued positively the collaboration given to human rights mechanisms that have visited the country, as well as the renewal of the collaboration agreement with the regional office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights.
44. Montenegro enquired on the main challenges that need to be addressed to reduce the number of overdue reports and on the activities to implement fully the 2012-2015 Policy against Racism and All Forms of Discrimination.
45. Morocco congratulated Bolivia for their cooperation with the human rights mechanisms, including the special procedures, as well as efforts to promote economic and social rights of vulnerable persons through the fight against extreme poverty.
46. Netherlands commended Bolivia for supporting the recommendations to uphold and improve the rights of women and girls. It expressed concern about the minimum age at which children will be allowed to work under law 548, as it seems in contradiction to ILO Convention 138.
47. Nicaragua highlighted that the economic, social, community and productive model carried out by the Government of President Evo Morales has made possible that Bolivian society lives in conditions of equality and social justice.
48. Norway congratulated Bolivia to ratify the Protocol to the American Convention for Human Rights and expressed concern about new legislation allowing children as young as ten to work legally and about long delays in trials and legal proceedings.
49. Pakistan commended Bolivia on meeting the MDG relating to extreme poverty. Pakistan also noted that Bolivia had improved access to education, health, basic services, food and housing through a wide range of policy measures.
50. Paraguay underscored the National Equal Opportunities Plan and welcomed the voluntary commitment to create an inter-institutional human rights space. It also stated that the Government's decision to elaborate indicators on education work, health and other subjects will allow important advances.
51. Peru highlighted a number of advances made such as the incorporation of norms on the right to education, bilingual intercultural education and the invitation to all Special Procedures of the Human Rights Council to visit Bolivia (Plurinational State of).
52. Philippines noted policies and programmes to combat racism and all forms of discrimination, and to promote the people's rights to food, water, health and education.

Philippines appreciated efforts to eradicate the worst forms of child labour, and actions taken to reduce cases or incidence of human trafficking.

53. Poland expressed concern about the proper implementation of the law regarding preventing violence against women and children and about reports of discrimination of women and children.

54. Portugal commended Bolivia for developing human rights indicators in several key priority areas. Portugal asked for further information on a study that found that 88 percent of the school population suffers some form of violence.

55. Republic of Korea noted Bolivia's standing invitation to Special Procedures and the adoption and implementation of the 2012 – 2015 Action Plan to eliminate racism and all forms of discrimination, as well as the National Anti-Corruption Plan.

56. Romania appreciated the steps taken to accomplish the commitments to uphold the standards of human rights upon Bolivia's election as a member of the Human Rights Council.

57. The Russian Federation commended Bolivia for expanding access to drinking water, medical care, telephone links, electricity, water supplies and modern housing. It noted efforts to combat poverty and progress made in ensuring freedom of belief, improving situation of children and gender equality.

58. Responding to some questions, Bolivia indicated that it had recently adopted a constitutional decision permitting a process in cases of permitted legal abortion, based on the right of women and mothers to decide. In Bolivia, no court order or proceedings were currently required in order to exercise that right.

59. Regarding children's right to work, a Children and Adolescents Code had been adopted; that adoption process had proved a truly extraordinary experience during which many child workers in the country had mobilized and asserted their right to work. Bolivian legislation complied with international treaties, particularly an International Labour Organization convention regarding the matter, however, all laws passed in Bolivia aimed to reflect the objective reality that they attempted to regulate. Work of minors, within the limits set by international treaties and the Bolivian Constitution, was widely protected.

60. One of the pending tasks was the construction of a criminal system that protected individuals' lives and freedom. In Bolivia, many cases occurred in which accused persons attempted to hold up proceedings that were, unfortunately, against the interests of the State. The proceedings against persons who had attempted to destabilize or divide the country are dilated by incidents produce by the own accused. Regulations were being drawn up so that the situation would be corrected in the future.

61. There had been no amendments to an old law on the press and which was still in force, guaranteeing the right to freedom of expression. Although regulations had been adopted, at no time had they been regulations intended to restrict the rights of the communication media or freedom of expression, rather they had been laws that had recognized journalist rights, such as the law known as "Hermanos Peñasco Layme".

62. Senegal took note of positive efforts for the protection of human rights, in particular the economic policy.

63. Sierra Leone commended Bolivia for achievements in the socio-economic sphere, addressing women's rights, promoting human rights training, and including native languages in various teaching programmes.

64. Singapore noted the passing of the Comprehensive Act on guaranteeing a life free of violence for women and the Gender-based Political Harassment and Violent Act, as well as efforts to promote gender equality in employment and leadership positions.
65. Slovakia welcomed legislative steps taken since the first UPR cycle. It noted that the issue of child labour remained a concern and that justice required further progress and reform.
66. Slovenia noted a Constitutional Court ruling establishing that, in case of rape, victims need to report the offence to have abortion, rather than to have to press charge. Slovenia expressed concern about the legislation allowing children as young as ten to work legally.
67. South Africa commended the concept of “Buen Vivir”, which calls for greater accountability over patterns of consumption and production, including by transnational corporations and other business enterprises.
68. Spain congratulated the Government on the adoption of Law 348 to guarantee women a life free of violence, with an integral focus on women protection, in which femicide was set as a crime.
69. Sri Lanka congratulated Bolivia for achieving the MDG relating to extreme poverty. It also noted efforts to develop the health and education sectors. It further commended the legislative and administrative steps taken to ensure the economic and social development of women, and providing for equal access to political rights.
70. State of Palestine noted the establishment of the National Committee against Racism and All Forms of Discrimination, and the creation of the Vice Minister for Decolonization. It also acknowledged efforts to improve the situation of the most vulnerable population.
71. Sweden noted the new legislation which lowered the minimum age for child labour to 10 years. Sweden also noted that the new law lowered the age of criminal responsibility from 16 to 14 years.
72. Switzerland noted that important improvements in the judicial system are needed and that the implementation of the law to guarantee women a life free from violence should be strengthened.
73. Syrian Arab Republic commended steps to fight against extreme poverty, such as the establishment of the National Fund for Alternative Development, and Programa Semilla.
74. Thailand commended efforts to enhance children’s access to education and to increase women’s representation in politics. Thailand looked forward to the effective implementation of the recently enacted laws and established institutions to protect the rights of women and girls.
75. Trinidad and Tobago noted the attainment by Bolivia of the MDG related to extreme poverty. It also noted that the right of access to drinking water was enshrined in the Constitution.
76. United Kingdom of Great Britain & Northern Ireland noted the continued emphasis to address poverty and inequality. It welcomed the creation of the Torture Prevention Service urging that it is fully independent of the Ministry of Justice, and that the definition of torture in national legislation is consistent with international law.
77. United States of America noted the high rates of impunity and immunity for government officials facing corruption charges, prolonged preventative detention, politically motivated prosecutions and executive interference in the judiciary.

78. Uruguay underscored the ratification of a number of international treaties, the open invitation to the Special Procedures of the Human Rights Council, and advances in reduction of extreme poverty and in equitable distribution of income.
79. Ghana welcomed measures to reduce poverty, improve and expand access to safe drinking water and steps taken to ensure that aboriginal campesino nations have access to education meaningful to their culture.
80. Viet Nam congratulated Bolivia for the recent achievements in the field of human rights and improvement of people's living standard.
81. Algeria encouraged Bolivia to continue efforts for the promotion and protection of human rights, notably regarding the fight against extreme poverty, justice, the right to education, right to health and women's rights.
82. Angola commended the progress made for the promotion and protection of human rights since the last UPR. Angola also praised the efforts made to combat extreme poverty. Angola noted Social and Community Housing Programme, which reduces housing deficits in rural areas.
83. Argentina congratulated Bolivia for their efforts to address discrimination, in particular the Plan of Action 2012-2015 that promotes the adoption of policies and legislation to eliminate racial discrimination.
84. Australia noted the legislation being considered by the Congress which requires it to consult with indigenous peoples as part of the policy formulation policy. Australia welcomed the work to address challenges faced by the justice system. Australia expressed concern that the "Boy, Girl and Adolescent Code" exposes children to potential labour exploitation.
85. Austria commended the ratification of international instruments and the good cooperation between Bolivia and OHCHR. Austria regretted reports on mistreatment and unjustified punishment of inmates, and overcrowding. Austria expressed concern about the ineffectiveness of the judicial system.
86. Bangladesh welcomed actions to implement recommendations from the first cycle. It regretted that the commitment for ODA to developing countries has not been realized, hindering the struggle against extreme poverty and the full enjoyment of human rights.
87. Belarus noted comprehensive measures taken in the area of labour relations, ensuring guarantees of stable employment and decent wages. Belarus welcomed efforts to combat trafficking in persons.
88. While taking note of positive developments, Belgium noted however that the situation of women and girls, as well as of children remained a concern.
89. Benin congratulated Bolivia for the recent ratification of international human rights instruments. It requested the support of the international community with a view to allowing the country to reinforce its actions for the protection of human rights in the country.
90. Bhutan was pleased to note Bolivia's efforts in reducing the poverty and the income. It further commended Bolivia for its efforts to promote and protect the rights of women and children and to implement the recommendations from the first review.
91. Brazil noted progress made regarding the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals, as well as the standing invitation extended to the special procedures and the fight against all forms of discrimination. It noted however the persistence of challenges with regard to the eradication of child labour.

92. Burundi welcomed efforts, in particular with regard to policies and strategic plans, including to address racism and other forms of discrimination. It encouraged Bolivia to continue advancing in the promotion and protection of human rights.
93. Canada asked the delegation about the implementation of Law 348 to protect women and guarantee them a life free from violence, including identifying institutions responsible to oversee the implementation of the law. It remained concerned about the use of pre-trial detention in Bolivia.
94. Chile highlighted the recent ratification of the Second Optional Protocol to ICCPR, the Optional Protocol to CRC on a communications procedure and the Optional Protocol to ICESCR, which will require a high degree of implementation.
95. China highlighted that Bolivia had increased investment in education, protecting people's right to decent work and fair and reasonable pay. China noted the particular attention paid to the protection of the rights of women, children, elderly, disabled, indigenous peoples, refugees and migrants.
96. Colombia highlighted the commitment and efforts made by Bolivia to implement the recommendations received during the first review, as well as the transparency and cooperation with the human rights mechanisms.
97. Costa Rica congratulated Bolivia for progress made since the last review. It remained however concerned about the situation of women, the weaknesses in the administration of justice and the persistence of discrimination as a structural problem.
98. Croatia welcomed progress made in improving public health services and education, as well as steps taken towards poverty reduction. It encouraged Bolivia to make further improvements in the justice sector.
99. Egypt noted the recent signing of the inter-American Convention against racism. Egypt also positively noted efforts to prepare the following stage of the National Human Rights Action Plan, as well as the anticipated adoption of the Patriotic Agenda aimed at eradicating extreme poverty.
100. The Czech Republic recognized the important role of human rights defenders in the protection of human rights. With regard to the protection against torture, it welcomed steps taken to establish a national preventive mechanism.
101. The Democratic People's Republic of Korea took note of achievements in the fight against extreme poverty and the strengthening of the socio-political and judicial system to ensure human rights of the people. It congratulated Bolivia for its election to the Human Rights Council.
102. Denmark indicated that Bolivia had accepted Denmark's recommendation in 2009, to avoid further delays in the appointment of members of the highest judicial authorities. According to Bolivia's own evaluation, the new appointments have however not led to the expected change. It took note that Bolivia was currently preparing a new plan for the justice sector.
103. The Dominican Republic highlighted progress made since the last review, in particular with regard to the rights of campesinos and the reduction of extreme poverty and the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals.
104. Responding to additional comments regarding Act No. 348 on violence against women, Bolivia indicated that the law had been promulgated in 2013 and its regulations adopted later through a regulatory decree. The Act was the responsibility of the Ministry of Justice, which had established the Comprehensive Plurinational System for Gender-Based Violence Prevention, Attention, Sanctioning and Eradication, more commonly known as SIPPASE. The Act defined more than 20 crimes, which were included in the Criminal Code.

105. Regarding human trafficking, Bolivia indicated that there was a law and a Plurinational Council against Human Trafficking and Smuggling, with all the authorities involved in the matter. There were also departmental councils in the country's nine departments, which met periodically to examine the issue. There were also public policies, a plan regarding trafficking is already in implementation, and agreements with neighbouring countries were about to be signed in order to eradicate the problem.

106. Bolivia further reiterated that Bolivia accepted, with the greatest respect and humility, all the recommendations made in a healthy and positive way. Bolivia welcomed the fact that the large majority of country representatives had valued the efforts that the Plurinational State of Bolivia was undertaking in building a better society for its people. Bolivia regretted interventions which did not correspond with the reality or the truth.

107. The independence of the judiciary was one of the most important issues for Bolivia. The Constitution had established the direct and democratic election of judicial authorities by means of a popular election to guarantee their independence. Additionally, Bolivia had been working to review and improve all Bolivian legislation.

108. Regarding comments made on corruption, Bolivia indicated that claims did not correspond to reality. Since the implementation of the Assembly, a number of laws had been introduced to address corruption. Any persons who had been authorities, inclusive within the current government, who were processed, are serving custodial sentences for corruption. Bolivia was fighting a decisive and head-on battle against all forms of corruption.

109. Bolivia had not adopted legislation which was against children. The legislation adopted objectively recognized the reality in Bolivia, as in other countries.

110. Transitional measures had been put in place to recognize and protect defined age groups of children, who were fighting their own fight to have minimum labour conditions, which would allow them to work protected in some cases under various forms of supervision, control and monitoring. Bolivia would succeed in having protection mechanisms and hopefully in the next five years during the next cycle of the UPR, Bolivia would be able say with satisfaction and dignity that Bolivia had eliminated child labour, particularly for younger children, in accordance with the agreements which Bolivia respected and had ratified.

111. With regard to freedom of expression, Bolivia reiterated that there were no journalists that were persecuted, in prison, or being prosecuted. All the processes that were being undertaken were based on the Printing Act, which was a law that was defended by the journalistic sector; it was a law that was very old, it was almost 100 years old, and it was fully respected. He reiterated again that additional laws had been adopted to benefit journalists, while journalists had wide-ranging freedom in his country.

112. To conclude, Bolivia thanked delegations for the congratulations on becoming a member of the Human Rights Council. Bolivia would make its best efforts to contribute to constructing a human rights culture, in harmony with Mother Earth. In which all countries submitted equally to all instruments and institutions, in order that together and collectively, States could build a better world that protect human rights.

II. Conclusions and/or recommendations**

113. The recommendations formulated during the interactive dialogue/listed below have been examined by Bolivia (Plurinational State of) and enjoy the support of Bolivia (Plurinational State of):

- 113.1. Incorporate the Rome Statute into national law (Mexico);
- 113.2. Consider ratifying the UNESCO Convention against Discrimination in Education (Ghana);
- 113.3. Ratify the UNESCO Convention against Discrimination in Education and ensure that primary education is free and compulsory for all (Portugal);
- 113.4. Ratify the Protocol to the American Convention for Human Rights (Norway);
- 113.5. Further strengthening, as to its funding and independence, of the national preventive mechanism under OP-CAT so that it can function effectively and impartially (Czech Republic);
- 113.6. Explore the possibility of creating a monitoring system of international recommendations to facilitate the systematization and follow up to the recommendations of the human rights bodies and special procedures (Paraguay);
- 113.7. Conclude as soon as possible the elaboration of the National Human Rights Plan of Action (paragraph 31 of the National Report) (Peru);
- 113.8. Continue the process of developing human rights indicators (Paraguay);
- 113.9. Finish the development of indicators for the human right to water and sanitation, combating trafficking and smuggling of human beings, and access to justice and fair trial (Peru);
- 113.10. Implement promptly the Patriotic Agenda 2025(Nicaragua);
- 113.11. Protect the social status of the family as the basic unit of the social structure (Egypt);
- 113.12. Continue its positive efforts to further reduce extreme poverty by redistributing wealth among the most needy through appropriate welfare benefits (Malaysia);
- 113.13. Continue providing the necessary fund to support its supply of drinking water programme (Malaysia);
- 113.14. Ensure that any death in custody is investigated by an independent and impartial authority (Austria);
- 113.15. Take effective measures to bring conditions of detention in line with international standards by reducing overcrowding, improving the situation of juveniles and women in prison and promoting non-custodial measures (Austria);

---

Conclusions and recommendations will not be edited

- 113.16. Introduce an effective plan focusing on the human rights of persons deprived of their liberty, especially children living in prison with their parents, who were deprived of liberty (Poland);
- 113.17. Take steps to improve prison conditions by reducing overcrowding in line with UN Standard Minimum Rules for the Treatment of Prisoners ; implement alternatives to detention ; ensure access to a timely trial for those on remand ; and address the issue of children living with parents in prison (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland);
- 113.18. Bring conditions of detention in conformity with the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Treatment of Prisoners and develop protection measures for women deprived of their liberty, in line with the Bangkok Rules, as well for children living in prison with a parent (Switzerland);
- 113.19. Continue to seek measures to avoid the permanence of children with their imprisoned parents who are serving prison sentences, so as not to expose them to conditions that may affect their development (Uruguay);
- 113.20. Ensure that the new plan for a reorganization of the justice sector, as mentioned in the Government Program 2015-2020, guarantees the impartiality of the courts, full access for all citizens, and sufficient resources at all levels (Denmark);
- 113.21. Continue to work with other partners to reform its justice system through training programmes (Australia);
- 113.22. Pursue and reinforce judicial reforms initiated and improve access to justice in all its territory, with a view to consolidate the independence and efficiency of the judicial system (Switzerland);
- 113.23. Continue promoting access to justice as a mean to combat violations of rights, in particular those of persons deprived of their liberty (Brazil);
- 113.24. Take concrete measures to guarantee access to justice as well as fair and timely public trials by allocating sufficient resources to the judiciary and by improving the administration of justice (Austria);
- 113.25. Adopt further measures to reduce prison overcrowding, inter alia through reducing the rate of pre-trial detention (Czech Republic);
- 113.26. Thoroughly investigate the human rights violations committed between 1964 and 1982 to bring those responsible to justice and ensure full and effective reparation for victims (Ireland);
- 113.27. Improve protection mechanisms for migrants and consider establishing return programmes for migrants (Philippines);
- 113.28. Adopt a national action plan on Security Council resolution 1325 on Women Peace and Security (Portugal);
- 113.29. Closely follow guidelines in the relevant UNGA resolutions in its endeavour to prevent and combat violence against women and children (Thailand);
- 113.30. Intensify efforts to pass the legislation on sexual and reproductive rights in accordance with international obligations assumed under the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (Uruguay);

- 113.31. Revise penal laws regarding criminalization of women and girls in case of abortion as well as of the doctors who practice it (Uruguay);
- 113.32. Improve the allocation of human and financial resources to the Ombudsman Offices for Children and Adolescents and Prosecutors Offices to effectively combat and address violence against children and adolescents (Chile);
- 113.33. Continue with major coordinated efforts of the State, civil society and other relevant actors to fulfil the Plurinational Plan for Children, Childhood and Adolescence, implementation expected from 2014 to 2025, while considering the importance deserved by the empowerment of the rights of beneficiaries, and the sensitization of society for a proper inclusion (Ecuador);
- 113.34. Pursue efforts to implement the Plurinational Plan for Infants, Children and Adolescents 2014-2025 (Algeria);
- 113.35. Introduce effective and comprehensive measures to prevent violence against children and to eliminate the worst forms of child labour (Poland);
- 113.36. Protect children and adolescents who are working and are obliged to work through implementation of real and effective policies that consider their family situation, taking into account the Convention on the Rights of the Child (Sweden);
- 113.37. Finalize the five-year national plan for the prevention and gradual eradication of the worst forms of child labour and the protection of adolescents workers, and take appropriate measures to implement it (Syrian Arab Republic);
- 113.38. Take additional measures to prevent abuse of children, particularly in schools, to investigate such abuses and bring perpetrators to trial (Montenegro);
- 113.39. Take all necessary measures to bring its legislation on child labour in line with international obligations and continue implementing the programmes that provide education facilities for working children (Netherlands);
- 113.40. Address the issue of violence in schools as matter of priority and take the appropriate measures to put an end to all forms of ill-treatment and abuses, including sexual violence, perpetrated in schools, including the necessary measures to protect the victims and to ensure that those responsible are brought to justice (Portugal);
- 113.41. Develop and implement programmes to eradicate the worst forms of child labour such as mining of rivers and brick factories (Sweden);
- 113.42. Make every effort to eradicate hazardous forms of child labour and sexual exploitation of minors and ensure that the offences are effectively investigated and prosecuted (Republic of Korea);
- 113.43. Take all available measures to prevent all forms of violence against children and to bring cases of abuse to justice (Sweden);
- 113.44. Ensure that the recently adopted legislation on the minimum legal age to work is properly applied (Italy);
- 113.45. Strengthen access to the rights to education of infants, without discrimination, including the improvement of educational infrastructure, with a particular emphasis on the infant population in rural areas, and children and adolescents living on the streets Implement human rights education and training programmes aimed at combating discrimination based on ethnicity (Colombia);

113.46. Ensure that legislation on consultation with indigenous groups is well-formed, take into account indigenous peoples' concerns, and is effectively implemented (Australia);

114. The following enjoy the support of Bolivia (Plurinational State of) which considers that they are already implemented or in the process of implementation.

114.1. Continue to ratify the relevant universal human rights instruments to which is not yet a contracting party (Romania);

114.2. Pursue its cooperation with human rights mechanisms (Benin);

114.3. Cooperate with treaty bodies, submitting pending reports (Israel);

114.4. Enhance its cooperation with UN OHCHR (Kuwait);

114.5. Pursue actions to achieve the Millennium Development Goals (Senegal);

114.6. Pursue this very important work [developing human rights indicators in several key priority areas], which strengthen the human rights implementation on the ground (Portugal);

114.7. Continue to actively implement strategies and programmes for protection and social support of vulnerable groups (Russian Federation);

114.8. Strengthen programmes aiming at the enjoyment of the fundamental rights of the Bolivian people (Benin);

114.9. Introduce gender equality issues, as well as non-discrimination and non-violence due to gender identity and sexual orientation in education programmes, in the school regulations and in the training of teachers (Colombia);

114.10. Continue its policy to ensure comprehensive protection of citizen's economic, social and cultural rights (Democratic People's Republic of Korea);

114.11. Continue promoting its accurate social protection programs (Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of));

114.12. Continue its firm social investment policies (Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of));

114.13. Introduce further measures to sustain and reinforce progresses made in poverty reduction (Viet Nam);

114.14. Pursue efforts to combat extreme poverty and notably, within the framework of the Patriotic Agenda 2025 (Algeria);

114.15. Strengthen its policies and programmes to continue reducing extreme poverty in the country (Cuba);

114.16. Continue its efforts with a view to combating poverty and to make social services accessible for all the components of the society (Kuwait);

114.17. Pursue efforts regarding the fight against extreme poverty (Morocco);

- 114.18. Continue to push forward economic and social development and prioritize eradication of poverty and to further improve living standard of people (China);
- 114.19. Pursue its strategic policy emphasizing the universality of care and access to health services (Equatorial Guinea);
- 114.20. Guarantee universal access to health services and institutions (Senegal);
- 114.21. Implement the Strategic National Plan on Sexual and Reproductive Health 2009-2015 including allocating adequate budgetary resources for its full and effective implementation. Bolivia should ensure efficient access to information for women and girls about their rights. (Finland);
- 114.22. Intensify its efforts to implement the national literacy programs in peri-urban and rural areas (Equatorial Guinea);
- 114.23. Continue its efforts in implementing the Plan on Human Rights Education as part of Bolivia's human rights education system (Indonesia);
- 114.24. Continue its efforts to provide greater access to education and employment (Pakistan);
- 114.25. Continue to pay attention to ensuring the exercise of the right to education for all (Belarus);
- 114.26. Continue strengthening its inclusive and accurate education policy (Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of));
- 114.27. Promote human rights through education and training (Senegal);
- 114.28. Further progress in the implementation of the National Literacy Programs Yes I can and Yes I can continue (Nicaragua);
- 114.29. Continue to attach importance to environmental protection and achieve harmonious development of people and nature (China);
- 114.30. Make continued efforts in promoting sustainable development of health sector, while strengthening the partnership with the local community in delivering high-quality health services to all citizens (Democratic People's Republic of Korea);
- 114.31. Strengthen efforts to adequately implement policy, legislative, regulatory and administrative measures to combat discrimination, towards social inclusion (Ecuador);
- 114.32. Redouble efforts to implement anti-discrimination laws and policies, including through more intensive public awareness campaign (Philippines);
- 114.33. Ensure the rigorous implementation of the anti-discrimination legislation in order to ensure the respect of the rights of all Bolivian citizens (Romania);
- 114.34. Establish mechanisms for the evaluation and follow-up of the implementation of human rights public policies and programmes, in particular those referred to the fight against discrimination in all its forms and on any grounds, taking into account the recommendations from the universal periodic review and other human rights mechanisms (Colombia);

- 114.35. Address the underlying structural factors regarding discrimination against indigenous peoples and Afro-Bolivians and set and monitor the implementation of concrete equality targets (Republic of Korea);
- 114.36. Continue its efforts to fully implement the 2012 – 2015 plan of action against racism and all forms of discrimination (State of Palestine);
- 114.37. Take further measures to combat racism and all forms of discrimination, especially with respect to women, children, indigenous people and Afro-Bolivians (Trinidad and Tobago);
- 114.38. Sustain its National Action Plan against Racism and All Forms of Discrimination and continue to implement it at all levels (Indonesia);
- 114.39. Prosecute all cases of racial violence and discrimination (Sierra Leone);
- 114.40. Implement human rights education and training programmes aimed at combating discrimination based on ethnic origin (Costa Rica);
- 114.41. Boost its activities to combat discrimination against migrant workers (Iran (Islamic Republic of));
- 114.42. Take steps to complete the establishment of the National Preventive Mechanism in accordance with OP-CAT (Ghana);
- 114.43. Complete the national process on the establishment of a National Preventative Mechanism in accordance with OP-CAT (South Africa);
- 114.44. Continue its efforts to combat corruption and strengthen the rule of law (Singapore);
- 114.45. Reinforce the mandates of the National Council to Fight Corruption (Senegal);
- 114.46. Strengthen the legislative provisions concerning on equality (Equatorial Guinea);
- 114.47. Prevent deaths in custody and punish those responsible for such deaths (Ghana);
- 114.48. Strengthen trans-boundary checkpoints, and the specialized security and judicial authorities to combat human trafficking (Lebanon);
- 114.49. Strengthen actions to ensure the effective implementation of legislation aiming at reducing and eliminating trafficking and smuggling of persons (Argentina);
- 114.50. Establish a policy concerning the return of victims of human trafficking and their rehabilitation and reintegration into the work market (Lebanon);
- 114.51. Step up efforts to combat crime to work on national plan of action against human trafficking and to prevent sexual slavery and violence in the family (Russian Federation);
- 114.52. Establish standard operating procedures for the identification of victims of human trafficking (Trinidad and Tobago);
- 114.53. Develop the measures in the area of combating human trafficking and this includes by expanding regional and international cooperation (Belarus);

- 114.54. Continue prevention, protection and assistance for the victims of trafficking (Iran (Islamic Republic of));
- 114.55. Establish legislation to monitor and address human trafficking (Sierra Leone);
- 114.56. Urgently review the legal grounds and practice of pre-trial detention that will effectively limit its use and duration (Hungary);
- 114.57. Take steps, including allocating adequate resources, to strengthen the capacity and independence of the judiciary to improve the fair and timely administration of justice (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland);
- 114.58. Incorporate the recommendations from treaty monitoring bodies and from the special procedures regarding the administration of justice within the Sectorial Plan for Plural Justice 2013-2025 (Costa Rica);
- 114.59. Increase measures aiming at guaranteeing an efficient justice system, including the effective access to legal representation, paying particular attention to recommendations made by the Committee against Torture (Chile);
- 114.60. Guarantee fully the independence of the judiciary, in conformity with relevant international norms (France);
- 114.61. Respect and fortify the independence of the judiciary to ensure the fair and equal application of justice and the rule of law (United States of America);
- 114.62. Reinforce measures to ensure that the judiciary is independent and free of political and economic interference and combat irregularities and delays in the administration of justice (Croatia);
- 114.63. Initiate a comprehensive set of measures to address existing inefficiencies within the judicial system including ensuring efficient prosecution and crime prevention while guaranteeing judicial independence, including that of the constitutional court. This also comprises the provision of social rehabilitation, reduction of time needed for investigative custody and taking steps to avoid prison overcrowding (Germany);
- 114.64. Take all necessary measures to ensure the independence and the correct operation of the judiciary (Italy);
- 114.65. Continue to take further steps for enhancing access to justice (India);
- 114.66. Reduce delays in investigations and prosecutions by police, judges and prosecutors by creating mechanisms to fully implement legal and constitutional provisions guaranteeing access to justice for both victims of crime and offenders (Canada);
- 114.67. Expeditiously and fully investigate and prosecute acts of violence and discrimination targeting women, indigenous, and LGBTI persons and guarantees an effective remedy to victims and their families (Ireland);
- 114.68. Reinforce existing legislation to ensure a fair judicial treatment, especially for the most vulnerable categories, such as women and children (Italy);
- 114.69. Respect legislation on maximum duration of pre-trial detention, and implement alternatives to preventive detention (Norway);

- 114.70. Continue intensifying efforts to create an independent and autonomous truth commission in accordance with international standards, that may enable the establishment of a fair and transparent mechanism to ensure effective remedy for victims of human rights violations (Uruguay);
- 114.71. Further advance to democratize communication and information (Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of));
- 114.72. Ensure security and protection of all journalists and media-institutions, and that legislation comply with international standards on free speech (Norway);
- 114.73. Ensure that journalists and reporters can freely exercise their right to freedom of expression (Israel);
- 114.74. Reinforce on-going measures for the promotion of freedom of expression , freedom of association and freedom of the press (Senegal);
- 114.75. Continue promoting the active participation and empowerment of young people in the processes of national decision making (Nicaragua);
- 114.76. Review respective legislation to eliminate the requirement of prior judicial authorization for therapeutical abortion and abortion in cases of rape and incest (Slovenia);
- 114.77. Create regulations and public policies in favour of sexual and reproductive rights, especially those of women and indigenous population (Mexico);
- 114.78. Recognize migrants and their families as a vulnerable group and implement measures in law and practice for the protection and promotion of their rights (Mexico);
- 114.79. Strengthen and increase current efforts, including through international cooperation, aimed at protecting the rights of children and women, with a particular emphasis on combating violence against women and social exclusion, in line with international instruments that Bolivia is party to (Brazil);
- 114.80. Continue to pay attention to women and children related issues (India);
- 114.81. Continue working to eliminate gender stereotypes and conduct awareness raising campaigns at the national level in order to combat it. (Guatemala);
- 114.82. Ensure that gender issues and women's rights are mainstreamed in all Government programmes, particularly in labour and employment and anti-poverty measures (Philippines);
- 114.83. Approve appropriate budget allocations and resources for the protection of women and women programs, particularly in the areas of justice, health and equal opportunities (Spain);
- 114.84. Continue its efforts to achieve gender equality and tackle discrimination against women in law and practice (Pakistan);
- 114.85. Intensify ongoing actions to eliminate discrimination against women at all levels in society (Sri Lanka);

- 114.86. Continue current efforts to promote and protect the rights of rural women (Syrian Arab Republic);
- 114.87. Increase efforts to promote gender equality, especially with regards to work opportunities and health access, and to introduce gender components in education and professional training (Italy);
- 114.88. Fully implement the Comprehensive Act 348 on Guaranteeing a Life Free of Violence for Women (South Africa);
- 114.89. Intensify efforts to prevent violence against women, particularly domestic and sexual violence (Montenegro);
- 114.90. Pursue efforts regarding the fight on violence against women (Morocco);
- 114.91. Continue to implement policies to protect women against violence and promote gender equality (Singapore);
- 114.92. Continue its efforts to overcome gaps and implement provisions to address gender violence as well as to carry out prompt, thorough and impartial investigations into all complaints of gender-based violence (Slovenia);
- 114.93. Take all necessary measures to ensure effective access to justice to victims of gender violence (Belgium);
- 114.94. Provide sufficient resources to institutions responsible for implementing Law 348, the legislation that guarantees women a life free from violence, in order to improve access to justice and to ensure accountability in cases of violence against women (Canada);
- 114.95. Take specific measures to fight violence against women (France);
- 114.96. Take effective measures to further implement the normative framework for combating violence against women, including by allocating sufficient resources for the construction of shelters for victims (Republic of Korea);
- 114.97. Implement comprehensive measures to eliminate violence against women and sexual abuse of children (Sierra Leone);
- 114.98. Reinforce instances established by law to combat violence against women and put in place a system for the protection, prevention and effective punishment, in favour of women victims of violence (Switzerland);
- 114.99. Establish more administrative instruments and allocate more funds with a view to effective implementation of legislations on combating violence against women (Viet Nam);
- 114.100. Undertake awareness-raising campaigns to sensitize law enforcement officials and the judiciary on violence against women and girls, within the framework of the new Law 348 “The Comprehensive Act on guaranteeing a life free of violence for women” (Belgium);
- 114.101. Implement effectively the new legal framework to guarantee women a life free from violence, providing all necessary resources to implement programmes for the attention of victims and to undertake training activities on violence and discrimination against women (Chile);
- 114.102. Strengthen measures to prevent violence against women, in particular by raising awareness of the fact that discrimination and violence against women is unacceptable, and implement legislation on violence against women and girls. Make more efforts to create a unified register on violence against women (Croatia);

114.103. Establish shelters and provide further social services for victims of domestic violence (Czech Republic);

114.104. Secure the necessary resources for the effective implementation of the law against abuse of women, in particular through the strengthening of the special police force to combat gender-based violence (FELCV) so that it can fulfil its mandate (Denmark);

114.105. Effectively implement the legal provisions of law that combat gender violence (Israel);

114.106. Swiftly adopt the necessary implementing legislation to ensure effective prevention of violence against women and punishment of the offenders (Italy);

114.107. Implement policies to comprehensively address violence, labour , political and access to justice problems faced by women (Costa Rica);

114.108. Create tools to effectively address domestic violence (Israel);

114.109. Establish without further delay shelters to protect women and girls from violence and effectively implement the legislation already adopted (Austria);

114.110. Continue measures aiming at combating gender violence, with special focus on the investigation and punishment of those responsible (Argentina);

114.111. In order to achieve a full and effective implementation of the Strategic National Plan on Sexual and Reproductive Health, mobilize adequate resources to improve access of women to the justice system (Netherlands);

114.112. Protect the reproductive rights of girls and women, adopting legal reforms that eliminate the requirement for prior judicial authorization for abortion (Israel);

114.113. Develop necessary programmes in order to promote the economic and social development of women, especially in rural areas (Egypt);

114.114. More effectively address the issue of overcrowding in prisons and children living in prison with their families (Sierra Leone);

114.115. Review the new legislation on child labour and consider developing a national plan to reduce child labour (Slovenia);

114.116. Following up on a 2010 recommendation, fully implement the National Plan for the Prevention and Gradual Eradication of the worst Forms of Child Labour and the Protection of Adolescent Workers (Germany);

114.117. Pursue efforts to address child labour in line with its international obligations (Slovakia);

114.118. Further strengthen measures to protect children from all forms of violence (Sri Lanka);

114.119. Put in place measures that are in line with the international standards, especially the ILO Conventions on minimum age for admission to employment and work and on the worst forms of child labour (Thailand);

114.120. Safeguard the rights of children and adolescents and enhance the protection accorded to them against all forms of violence, including by inter alia the conclusion of the Five Year Plan for the Prevention and Gradual Eradication of the Worst Forms of Child Labour and the Protection of Adolescent Workers (Egypt);

114.121. Ensure that the Code for Children and Adolescents and other relevant domestic legislation and practice are in full compliance with the requirements of ILO Convention 138 (United States of America);

114.122. Put in place legislation that protects children from labour exploitation through a minimum working age, consistent with its international legal obligations (Australia);

114.123. Implement effective policies to tackle cases of physical, psychological and sexual abuse against children (Italy);

114.124. Continue its efforts to adopt more measures to keep children in school, and ensure that girls, indigenous children, and children with disabilities are able to exercise fully their right to education (State of Palestine);

114.125. Advance in the implementation of human rights to live in harmony with the Mother Earth (Cuba);

114.126. Continue its policy against racism and all forms of discrimination particularly in favour of indigenous peoples (Angola);

114.127. Take further steps to ensure that the indigenous peoples justice system is at all times compliant with due process and other guarantees established in the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (Finland);

114.128. Increase access to justice for sectors of the population, especially for those who live in rural areas (Trinidad and Tobago);

114.129. Intensify its efforts to access to education for indigenous peoples and other disadvantaged communities and groups (Iran (Islamic Republic of));

114.130. Ensure equal access to education for indigenous peoples afro-Bolivians and other disadvantaged communities and groups (Ghana);

114.131. Continue advancing on participation and consultation to indigenous peoples, including on mining (Spain);

114.132. Promote policies to allow indigenous peoples and minorities access to the National Literacy Programme, the National Post-literacy Programme and bilingual inter-cultural education (Dominican Republic).

115. The recommendations below did not enjoy the support of Bolivia (Plurinational State of) and would thus be noted.

115.1. Provide a legislative framework for the eradication of child labour in accordance with its human rights obligations (Germany);

115.2. Pay more attention to the problems related to the independence of the judicial process (Croatia);

115.3. Advance in the commitment to incorporate into the national human rights law the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, with special attention to labour rights, rights of indigenous communities and environmental rights (Spain);

115.4. Repeal or modify legal norms that deny or limit the rights of people based on their sexual orientation or gender identity (Israel);

115.5. Develop a strategic plan to prevent the high rate of school dropout and eradicate child labour (Mexico);

115.6. Adopt the ILO Minimum Age Convention so that no child under 14 years of age is engaged in an apprenticeship, and ensure that Children and Adolescents' Defence Committees have adequate resources to fulfil their tasks (Norway);

115.7. Continue taking necessary measures to fully eradicate child labour, without exception, in conformity with the ILO Convention No. 138 ratified by Bolivia (Belgium);

115.8. Amend Law 548 on child labour to meet Bolivia's international human rights obligations on minimum working age for children, to prohibit child labour in hazardous conditions, protect children from economic exploitation, protect children from any work that is likely to interfere with their education, and progressively raise the minimum age of employment (Canada);

115.9. Protect and fulfil children's rights, eradicating child labour and the sexual exploitation of minors (Israel);

115.10. Develop a National Strategic Plan for the Progressive Elimination of Child Labour, with short- and medium-term goals as well as follow-up and evaluation mechanisms, both quantitative and qualitative, and endowed with financial resources for its implementation at the national, departmental and municipal level (Spain);

115.112. Step up reform of the justice system with a view to address effectively access to justice, interference in judicial proceedings and the backlog of cases (Slovakia);

115.123. Take legislative as well as practical steps to ensure that judicial procedures including the one against Mr. Tóásó are conducted in a just, transparent, and impartial manner, in full respect of human rights norms, including the recommendations of UN mechanisms (Hungary);

115.134. Adopt measures to end violations to due process in judicial proceedings (Israel);

115.145. Ensure the protection of human rights defenders and journalists as well as efficient and impartial investigation of threats and attacks targeting them (Czech Republic);

115.156. Recognize that independent and free media are an essential component of a functioning democracy, and allow all journalists and media outlets to operate without fear (United States of America).

116. Bolivia considers that the above-mentioned recommendations in paragraph 115 are not updated, and do not reflect our reality.

117. All conclusions and/or recommendations contained in the present report reflect the position of the submitting State(s) and/or the State under review. They should not be construed as endorsed by the Working Group as a whole.

Annex

Composition of the delegation

The delegation of Bolivia (Plurinational State of) was headed by Mr. Héctor Enrique Arce Zaconeta, Procurador General del Estado, and composed of the following members:

- Sr. Héctor Enrique Arce Zaconeta, Procurador General del Estado – Jefe de la Delegación ;
  - Sra. Sandra Elizabeth Gutiérrez Salazar, Ministra de Justicia ;
  - Sra. Erika Chávez Barrancos, Subprocuradora de asesoramiento, investigación y producción normativa ;
  - Sr. Nelson Marcelo Cox Mayorga, Director General de justicia indígena originario campesina – Ministerio de Justicia ;
  - Sra. Angélica Navarro Llanos, Embajadora – Representante Permanente del Estado Plurinacional de Bolivia ante Naciones Unidas y otros Organismos Internacionales ;
  - Sra. Maysa Rossana Ureña Menacho, Jefa de Unidad de Políticas Internacionales – Ministerio de Relaciones Exteriores ;
  - Sra. Anriela Giovanna Salazar, Jefa de Unidad de Producción Normativa – Procuraduría General del Estado;
  - Sra Daniela Llanos Sangüesa, Ministra Consejera de la Misión Permanente del Estado Plurinacional de Bolivia ante Naciones Unidas y otros Organismos Internacionales ;
  - Sra. Ana del Rosario Durán, Primer Secretario de la Misión Permanente del Estado Plurinacional de Bolivia ante Naciones Unidas y otros Organismos Internacionales.
-