The World Organisation Against Torture (OMCT) is an international non-governmental organisation (NGO) that was created in 1985. It is headquartered in Geneva, Switzerland. OMCT works for, with and through an international coalition of over 200 NGOs - the SOS-Torture network - fighting torture, summary executions, enforced disappearances, arbitrary detentions, and all other cruel, inhuman and degrading treatment or punishment in the world. Every year, it also protects more than 600 human rights defenders at risk around the world by alerting the international community about their plight, mobilizing support for them and offering training, material assistance and relocation to safety.
