

Women's Rights Protection in China

1. The All-China Women's Federation and women's federations at all levels keep close contact with women from all walks of life, listen to their opinions, and then pass women's voices and needs to the legislature, the judiciary and government.

2. In recent years, China has enriched the mechanism for gender equality, and has established the gender equality evaluation mechanism on laws, legislations and policies.

3. Gender stereotypes and bias which last for thousands of years have been broken down and the first Anti-domestic Violence Law of China has been enacted.

4. We attach importance to the capacity building in rights protection of women from ethnic minorities
